AMERICA FACES BUREAUCRACY, BORAH AVERS

Idaho Republican Asserts Waste Will Demand Higher Taxes.

ANGRY PUBLIC SEEN HALTING WRONGS

Senator Blames Hoover for Increase in Number of Commissions.

(Associated Press.)

A warning that the Federal Government is building up a bureaucracy which will demand permanent increases in expenditures and taxation unless stopped by "angry public opinion" was issued yesterday by Senator Borah.

The Idaho Republican, in a prepared statement, said a large share of the blame should be placed on the executive branch of the Government. He assailed what he called "an effort to put the sole blame on Congress."

His statement was in reply to recent demands from President Hoover for reduced appropriations and the President's assertion no increase in taxation would be necessary if Congress kept expenditures within the budget recommendations. During the last ten years, Senator Borah said, Congress has cut budget estimates by $414,000,000.

Executive Is Blamed.

"The fact is," he added, "that Congress is constantly being besieged by the executive departments for much larger appropriations than Congress is willing to grant."

Senator Borah pointed out Federal appropriations have grown from $1,098,802,000 in 1914 to $4,821,374,000 in 1931, despite the "sincere effort to cut down expenditures" by former President Coolidge.

"It needs no argument," Senator Borah said, "to satisfy one that Government expenditures are wastefully large, and that the ever-growing burden of taxation is one of the great factors in bringing about our present depression.

Remedy With People.

"But I venture to say that there is no remedy for these things unless the people, the voters themselves, place this subject on their agenda and call for an accounting in no uncertain terms.

"If the matter is left to the unbridled discretion of the men who gather at the Capitol, without the most emphatic instructions from home, there will not be any reduction in expenditures or curtailment in the building up of a bureaucracy.

"The most wasteful and extravagant part of the Government is this bureaucracy. Nation-wide, which we are building up, and appropriations are its life-blood.

"Unless there is some limit to be placed upon the building up of these bureaucracies, there can not possibly be any decrease in aprpopriations.

Higher Expenses Seen.

"It may be possible to devise some scheme which will enable us to make a temporary showing. But it is perfectly certain that this bureaucratic tendency can lead to nothing but permanent increase of Government expenditures and permanent increase of taxes.

"It is no easy thing to change this. It can not be done, in my judgment, except by most thoroughly aroused and sustained and angry public opinion."

Senator Borah said more than 3,000,000 persons in this country are on the public pay roll, either city, State or national, outside of those employed on contract work, and their salaries have been increased 24 per cent in the last seven years.

"When the French Revolution broke out," he said, "every five adult citizens were carrying one person on the public payroll. At the present time—and we are comparatively a young government — approximately every ten persons, gainfully employed in occupations other than in the Government pursuit, contribute to the support of one person on the public payroll."

Commissions Are Scored.

Saying the taxpayers of this country now carry "four layers of officials, city, county, State and Federal," Senator Borah added, "we are now creating a fifth layer, our commissions."

During the past two years, he said, 26 Government commissions have

Siamese King Drops Official Program to Take Trip to Dentist

Ruler, However, Returns None the Less Intact and Hurries to Formal Dinner Given in His Honor by President and Mrs. Hoover at White House.

The frail frame of his majesty, King Prajadhipok, absolute monarch of Siam, who traveled 11,000 miles from his native land to get the help of American surgeons, proved unequal yesterday to the official program mapped out for him.

He fulfilled the formalities for which he came to the National Capital of the greatest republic, but put aside other planned activities and went instead to see the dentist.

The king returned minus no teeth, however, members of his party explaining that his visit simply was for examination and diagnosis, though he visited dental surgeons known for their skill in pulling aching molars, Dr. Sterling V. Mead, Dr. H. J. Newton and Dr. D. F. Lynch.

The king spent an hour and a half with them. He submitted to tests to determine the vitality of his teeth, the more or less common water test, an "exploration" and had X-ray pictures taken. The report of the dental surgeons will be submitted to Dr. William H. Wilmer, when the king goes to Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore this morning for an examination preparatory to an operation for removal of a cataract from his left eye. It was thought the teeth examination should be made because, it is said, often teeth affect the eyes.

There was no pomp about the visit to the dentists. King Prajadhipok left his residence late in the afternoon, accompanied only by an official of the State Department, and must have had to hurry a bit with his dressing to get to the White House in time for the formal dinner given in his honor by President and Mrs. Hoover.

The dinner was the capstone of formal activities incident to the visit

RHEEM BALKS QUIZ ON MARQUETTE CASH

Claims His Immunity When Asked About Proceeds From Trust.

Edmund D. Rheem, executive vice president of the defunct Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., yesterday told creditors how he replaced trusts on the Lombardy and Marquette apartments, but offered not one word of testimony on cash repaid to noteholders.

Rheem said he "had no recollection" of funds paid creditors when the original $330,000 first trust on the Lombardy was released. He claimed immunity when questioning turned on what was done with proceeds from the released $285,000 trust on the Marquette.

"What became of proceeds from the new first trust on the Lombardy?" Attorney George E. Sullivan asked the witness.

"My recollection is that they were credited to noteholders' accounts," replied Rheem.

"I'm not talking about accounts," said Sullivan. "I want to know what actually became of the proceeds."

"I have no recollection," said Rheem.

Later, when the Marquette was under discussion, Sullivan followed this identical line of questioning. This time Rheem balked when asked what was done with the proceeds, claiming immunity on grounds that an answer might incriminate him.

Before the hearing adjourned, Attorney Marcus Borchardt asked if it wasn't a fact that between May 3 and July 16, 1930, $300,000 was paid to the Shoreham Hotel Corporation, and about the same amount to the Westchester Development Corporation out of a bank account containing funds for other settlements. Rheem again claimed immunity.

At the outset of the hearing, Sullivan questioned Rheem as to the "financial history" of A Joseph Howar, recipient of a number of the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey loans, including funds for the Lombardy and Marquette.

Sullivan protested when the referee ruled that Howar's "history" was not revelant. As a result of transactions in which Howar's projects are involved, "the trustees are left holding the bag for a couple of hundred thousand dollars," the attorney declared.

Rheem testified that the original $350,000 loan to Howar on the Lombardy apartments represented only about 60 per cent of its completion cost, that it must have been necessary for him to secure nearly $200,000 additional to complete the project. He said Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey did not supply it.

Rheem's testimony was that the original $350,000 first trust was put on the Lombardy November 28, 1928. Although it was scheduled to run five

MARYLAND HALTS CERTIFICATE SALE

State's Attorney Charges Building Association Uses Illegal Methods.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., April 29.—The Suburban District Building Association was restrained from further sale of "surplus certificates" today by an order of W. Preston Lane, jr., attorney general, who termed its method of sales a fraud.

The association, which Mr. Lane asserted had victimized the majority of its 935 stockholders, maintains a Maryland office in Mount Rainier, in or near which most of its investors lived. Another office is maintained in the Shoreham Building in Washington, he said.

Since the company began operations, according to Mr. Lane, "surplus certificates" amounting to $60,000 have been sold to investors, whereas members have paid into the company on their stock subscriptions about $35,000. Of this amount, over $10,000 has been withdrawn, leaving a balance of approximately $25,000.

The par value of the stock was $50 a share, for which a surplus certificate was sold for $2.50, making a unit valuation of $52.50 a share, Mr. Lane asserted, adding that practically every cent of the $2.50 charged for a surplus certificate went to the great National Securities Co. for its services in making sales

"It is perfectly evident that holders of these so-called 'surplus certificates' have no hope of participating in the assets of the company nor of realizing anything of value for their investment. To permit further sale of these certificates and to lead investors to believe that they are obtaining something of value would, in my opinion, amount to a fraud," Mr. Lane stated.

The order, which became effective today, concerns only the operations of the Maryland branch of the association.

Four in Virginia Family Succumb Within Month

Special to The Washington Post.

Yesterday Mrs. Jeanette Shifflett, a member of the family, died. A week before her brother, Thomas Davis, died, while a short time before Mrs. John Davis, whose husband is a brother of Thomas Davis expired. The last member of the family was Robert F. Davis, slain a short time ago.

Chesterton Sees Dry Law Threatening Disaster Here

British Author Glad to Be Home From "a Different Civilization—or Barbarism;" Regards "Ugly" Buildings in U. S. as Eyesore.

London, April 29 (A.P.).—Gilbert K. Chesterton, author, told the Society for Preservation of Rural England today on his return from the United States that he felt as if he had "just returned from a different civilization—or barbarism, whatever you call it."

Prohibition, "ugly" buildings and Tennessee's rigorous moral code impressed him strongest on his tour of America, he said, adding that New York was as terrifying to Americans as to foreigns.

"I've been in Tennessee," he said, "where if a man insults you you are expected to shoot him with a gun or you're not considered a gentleman. Call it barbarism or chivalry, it's the feudal spirit full of feud.

"From one end to the other of this magnificent civilization there is no such thing as a village. When you entire a little town it is simply an eyesore to anybody of European tradition or instincts. The first things met are yellow, tin advertisements, tin buildings with frameworks of lead and glass and tin shops and then, thank God, you are out of the town."

In regard to prohibition, Mr. Chesterton said the law was threatening America with disaster.

"There are no inns in America," he said, "but there is plenty to drink—far, far too much. Alcoholism has never threatened disaster as it is threatening America today. It isn't normal that girls of 16 should go to dances and drink raw alcohol."

U. S. CHAMBER HEARS LAMONT HIT WAGE CUTS

Says Prosperity Periods Are Coincident With Higher Scale.

INSURANCE FOR IDLE ENTERS PARLEY TALK

Overproduction and Finance Also Are Discussed at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 29 (A.P.). Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, addressing the United States Chamber of Commerce today, counseled the Nation's business leaders against wage cutting as a solution of their problems.

Instead, he said, the most prosperous periods in history have been those "coincident with high wages and shorter hours."

Mr. Lamont told the chamber that the Government had done all possible; that the problems were so vast no single effort could solve them; that business itself, as the American individualistic tradition dictates, should get together "to sit on the bulge" of enthusiasm that makes over production during boisterous periods of prosperity.

The business men also heard a keynote address by William Butterworth, president of the chamber, and a discussion of the "associational approach to problems which challenge business leadership," by Harry A. Wheeler, Chicago, first president of the chamber.

Discussion on Insurance.

They then turned to more intimate discussions at round table luncheons.

"What," for instance, "can private insurance companies do to take care of unemployment?" was one.

Leroy A. Lincoln, vice president and general counsel of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., said:

"The extent to which insurance can solve the problem of unemployment is very limited and, indeed, there is great danger that unemployment insurance would tend to increase the incidence of the very ailment it was intended to remedy. It should not be implied from this that the cause of such a situation, if it should transpire, would be due entirely to the insured persons themselves. It is quite possible that the existence of insurance sufficient in its scope would tend to make employers and even the State, as well as the workmen, more careless about the essential evil of unemployment itself, and would tend to induce them to relax the efforts they would otherwise be making to diminish a state of unemployment."

Asks for More Information.

Mr. Lincoln pleaded for more information before either Government or private enterprise entered largely into the field, emphasizing that too much attention to unemployment insurance is likely to result in too little attention to the necessity of stabilizing employment conditions themselves.

The insurance round table also heard a discussion of inland transportation insurance by Guy E. Beardsley, vice president of the Aetna Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn., and social insurance.

Other round tables sought to answer these questions:

Can overproduction in the natural resource industries be prevented?

How should business lend in public finance?

The effects of municipal development upon the business of a community?

What is fair competition in transportation?

PARTIES' FIGHT TO SHUN HOUSE RULE LOOMING

Some of Republicans and Democrats Desire to Avoid Issues.

THIRD SPEAKERSHIP CANDIDATE POSSIBLE

Legislation That May Bring Trouble Is Blamed for Situation.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

To judge from "off the record" statements made by Republicans now in Washington, a considerable number of Republican members of the House are hoping that the Democrats will organize the House and elect a Democratic Speaker next December.

These Republicans are afraid that a lot of dangerous legislation will come up in the next Congress—legislation to help further the World War veterans, for example—and they want the Democrats to take the responsibility for it.

The Republicans, for the most part, would vote for anything having to do with the veterans, but they would like to have it said that the legislation was enacted in a House that was dominated by the Democrats.

Thus, if the national budget went beyond the limit set by President Hoover, the Republicans could blame the Democrats for it.

Desire Not General.

This desire on the part of Republicans to have the Democrats take over control of the House is not general, of course. It is not found, for example, among Republicans who are now chairmen of committees and who have fine offices and extra employes. Nor is it found among men like John Q. Tilson and Bertrand Snell, who are among the Republican candidates for speaker.

However, this desire is found among those Republicans who do not hold important committee appointments and who are not likely to hold important committee appointments even if their party does continue to control the House.

Just as there are Republicans who hope the Democrats will gain control, so are there Democrats hoping the Republicans will continue to control the House. They, too, foresee a lot of legislation that may cause trouble, and they would like to see such legislation charged up to the enemy party.

Moral Responsibility Involved.

While Republicans and Democrats talk this way, while they suggest that they would like to see the other party gain control, none of them will admit they will vote for a rival Speaker or otherwise help the rival party to take over the House next December.

Moreover, they concede that there will be a certain moral responsibility involved. Whichever party has the majority, they admit, will be expected to organize the House.

On paper—assuming that Republicans will be elected to take the places of the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, and the late Henry Allen Cooper, of Wisconsin—the standing in the House will remain as follows:

Republicans, 218; Democrats, 216, and Farmer-Labor, 1.

May Have Third Candidate.

The prospect last night was that the election of a Speaker next December will be pretty much like the election which put Frederick H. Gillett in the Speaker's chair.

On that occasion the Western progressives got together and put up a third candidate—the late Representative Cooper, of Wisconsin.

The progressives, something like

Chicago Postoffice Tract Declared High

U. S. Attorney Tells Senate Subcommittee Double Price Was Paid for Property on Same Day of Planned Condemnation Proceedings.

Chicago, April 29 (A.P.).—George E. Q. Johnson, United States district attorney, today told the Senate subcommittee investigating postoffice leases that the Government purchased a tract for the proposed Chicago postoffice at a private sale on the same day his office was to start condemnation proceedings against it.

The price paid for the property, $535,000, was more than twice the amount of its Government appraisal, Johnson testified. The tract was needed to round out a square block, most of which previously had been purchased by the Government from Marshall Field & Co. for $4,425,000. The site subsequently was abandoned as the location for the postoffice, but the property still is owned by the Government.

Johnson told Senator J. J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, chairman of the subcommittee and the only member present, that Louis Beardsley, the Government appraiser, was ready to testify the Mayer tract was worth only $247,976. The sudden purchase of the property for $535,000 killed the proposed condemnation proceedings.

Much of today's testimony was by real estate experts and appraisers who gave radically varying estimates of the value of the Marshall Field tract.

Frederick T. Kuhn, a real estate dealer, testified that in his opinion, the site was worth between $4 and $5 a square foot, instead of the $17.50 the Government paid. Robert H. White, who said he had represented Marshall Field & Co. in negotiations for land adjoining the tract bought by the Government, testified the adjacent land was purchased for $19.43 per square foot.

RUSSIAN QUAKES KILL 392, HURT HUNDREDS; SOVIET RUSHES HELP

Thousands Are Homeless in Devastated Areas of Transcaucasia.

DAMAGE TO PROPERTY BELIEVED ENORMOUS

80 Per Cent of Villages in Zangezur District Are Destroyed.

Moscow, April 29 (A.P.).—A total of 392 persons was known tonight to have perished in the earthquake which struck three districts of the Soviet Republic of Nakichevan in Transcaucasia today.

In the district of Gerusay 200 were killed and 205 injured, while in the Sisiana region 192 were known to be dead and 600 injured.

Eighty per cent of the villages in the Zangezur region were destroyed.

The Guerriussin district in Armenia also was badly shaken and it was reported many were killed there and a large number injured.

Cattle Perish in Quake.

The towns of Erivan and Tiflis were shaken, but there were no casualties. Great numbers of cattle perished throughout the area worst hit by the quake.

The Moscow government assigned 2,000,000 rubles (about $1,000,000) for the assistance of the Transcaucasian government, which itself was inaugurating relief measures on a large scale.

Moscow (Thursday), April 30 (U.P.).—Earthquakes in the mountainous regions of Transcaucasia, south-central Soviet Russia, took heavy toll of life, injured hundreds and did widespread property damage, reports reaching here early today indicated.

The death toll was variously estimated between 150 and 213 persons. Upward of 20,000 persons were reported homeless in southern Armenia, now a Soviet republic, where the shocks were apparently worst.

Many Villages Devastated.

The quakes were reported to have devastated most of the villages in the Sisiansky region. Incessant rains throughout the stricken zone added to the suffering and misery of the frightened peasants.

Tiflis, in Georgia, and Nakichevan, in the southeastern tip of Armenia, two of the major cities in the quake area, were reported shaken, but the damage was not serious. They organized relief expeditions. The government promised aid and the Red Cross appealed for supplies.

The quakes in the Nakichevan area began at 9:25 p. m. Monday. Incomplete dispatches from the mountainous region, lying between the Black and Caspian Seas, indicated the damage was far greater than originally portrayed by meager accounts of the disaster.

The shocks laid waste the villages of Shinger, Yangzhitatov and Gamodzor. Other areas affected included Geryusinsk, Megrinsk and Opensky.

Population of Region Homeless.

Practically the entire population in the Opensky region of Armenia, a member of the Soviet Union, was reported homeless.

The heaviest damage in the Kafanks region was done to the villages of Barabatum, Revkar, Artsevanik, Archagan, Shalardzhig, Khaladshaokhtchi, Verkniand, Berkodzor and Kadzharantsi.

Five villages were devastated in the Megrinsk region. The reports revealed that thousands of persons were homeless in Nakichevan, center of the quakes of Monday in the Ordubatsk region. Incessant rains there similar to the storms in Armenia intensified the suffering and hampered relief work.

Three districts hit hardest are:

1. The Ordubatsk region, including the village of Nasyrvak, where 50 persons were reported killed. All houses were destroyed or damaged and many cattle killed. In this region casualties elsewhere included 6 dead at Ordubat, 20 others injured and 50 houses demolished; the village of Ustupi, where 3 persons were killed, others hurt and 80 per cent of the houses practically destroyed.

Towns Are Badly Shaken.

2. The Abrakunisak region. In this district, 50 persons were injured at the villages of Shurut and Paradash. The villages were reported badly damaged. The villages of Kazani,

HIT BY STREET CAR, MAN DIES OF HURTS

Samuel S. Galiher, Former U. S. Employe, Stepped in Trolley's Path.

Samuel S. Galiher, 76, was fatally injured early last night when he stepped from a loading platform at Fourth and Pennsylvania avenue southeast into the path of a street car. Taken to Casualty Hospital in serious condition from a compound skull fracture, crushed chest and concussion of the brain, he died at 10:30 o'clock last night.

The Capital Traction trolley which struck Galiher was in charge of Edward J. Marklin, motorman, and George W. Rhodes, conductor. John Heath, of 517 Kentucky avenue southeast, who was passing the corner when the accident occurred, drove the victim to the hospital.

It was learned that a week ago yesterday Galiher arrived in Washington from White Plains, N. Y., after having visited a daughter, Miss Blanche Galiher, who is a school teacher there. He obtained lodging at 107 Seventh street southeast. A married son, Claude, an auditor, lives at 130 Twelfth street southeast.

Years ago Galiher was a school principal in Missouri, giving up the teaching profession to enter the Government service as a Pension Office employe.

He had planned to leave here soon to visit relatives in Ohio.

41 DIE, SCORES HURT IN EGYPTIAN WRECK

Passengers, Frantic, Leap Out of Coaches Fired by Hot Box.

Cairo, Egypt, April 29 (A.P.).—Forty-one persons were killed and scores were injured tonight when the Cairo-Alexandria Express caught fire from a hot-box as the train sped along near the little station of Benha. The wreck is believed the greatest railroad catastrophe in Egyptian history.

Officials of the Egyptian State Railway continued through the night to search the right of way for the bodies of passengers who jumped from the three blazing coaches.

Early reports placed the number of dead at threescore, but it was admitted the casualties could only be conjectured until daylight made possible an accurate survey.

The hot-box developed beneath on of the third-class coaches and was not noticed until the flames burst upward, spreading quickly along the train. A signalman at Benha, first to see them, flagged the train down, but the general alarm had spread before a stop could be made and the frantic passengers leaped from windows in a wild scramble to escape.

The coaches were packed with holiday crowds en route to Cairo from Alexandria. The three cheap coaches burned like tinder. They were not

Jury, Out 30 Hours, Feels Sure of Reaching Verdict

Foreman Tells Court Members Are Hopeful of Arriving at Decision in Liquor Conspiracy Case Against 12 Defendants.

Jurors deliberating the case of twelve of fourteen defendants indicted on a charge of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act appeared near a record for service last night, as the thirty-hour mark was passed, but at 10:29 o'clock were apparently weakening.

Called in at that time by Justice Oscar Luhring, the foreman reported that the jury had been able to reach a verdict in the case of two of the persons indicted—Earl Harbin and Eugene Lee Saunders—but these two had been given directed verdicts by Justice Luhring before the jury went out at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The foreman told the justice at 10:30 last night however, that the jury believed it could reach a verdict, and it was returned to seclusion.

Members of the jury had listened to fourteen days of testimony and argument before the case was placed in their hands Wednesday afternoon. They became deadlocked after about five hours and were taken to the Metropolitan Hotel under guard of deputy marshals and locked up. At 9 o'clock yesterday morning they returned to their deliberations.

About supper time last night, as the jury prepared to take time out to eat, counsel for defense of the fourteen presented a united front before Justice Luhring urging that the jury be retained until it reached a verdict.

After the conference between the

3. The Shakhbuzak region. Four were killed, many injured and half the houses of the village of Ketchil demolished. About 260 houses at Kukinsk were reported in ruins.

Another quake did most damage at the town of Gori, in the Georgian Soviet Republic, some 120 miles from Tiflis. Details were not known, but the Geophysical Institute said it was not believed it was as serious as the first quake.

An appeal from Nakichwan authorities was sent to Premier Viacheslas Molotov and President Michael Kalinin for aid.

Nakichevan lies some 180 miles south and slightly east of Tiflis, near Persia. It is a city which by tradition has been called the "oldest in the world." The tenants of the ark in which Noah is supposed to have escaped the biblical flood were believed to have lived there. The population is 7,000.

Delinquency Trial Finds Brent Guilty

Fairfax County Judge Gives Year in Jail and $500 Fine.

Trial of Logan Brent, 42, colored, of Merrifield, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old white girl, took place yesterday in the Fairfax County courthouse before Judge A. C. Ritchie, of the county juvenile and domestic relations court. More than 100 persons gathered but were denied entrance to the court because of feeling against Brent. The trial lasted more than three hours.

Judge Ritchie imposed a fine of $500 and sentenced Brent to 12 months in jail. Attorney Walter T. Oliver noted an appeal from the sentence. Appeal bond was set at $1,000.

The charge of violating the State prohibition law against Brent was also heard before Judge Ritchie. Brent was ordered held for action of the grand jury on a charge of possession of ardent spirits at the May term of the county circuit court. Bond was set at $500 on this charge. Brent failed to give bond yesterday evening and Sheriff E. P. Kirby returned him to the Alexandria jail for safe keeping.

SIAM'S KING MAKES VISIT TO DENTIST

of King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambai Barni and their entourage.

White House precedent was broken in the seating. The President and Mrs. Hoover and the king and queen sat on the same side of the table. The king sat on the President's right, the queen on his left and Mrs. Hoover sat next to the king. Beside Mrs. Hoover sat Prince Svasti, genial father-in-law of the king.

Usually the President and Mrs. Hoover go to the state rooms of the White House after their guests have arrived. Last night they waited in the Red Room for the coming of their majesties who had been preceded by their suite, members of which waited in the East Room with American guests. The President and the king walked down the corridor together, followed by Mrs. Hoover and the queen and the President's aids, to the East Room when guests were presented, after which, it was said, the President escorted the queen to the dining room and Mrs. Hoover was escorted by the king. But just how the matter of precedence was settled White House officials declined to say.

Dinner consisted of fish, cold lobster, basket of beets stacked with cucumbers, smothered chicken breasts, endive in spring salad, fruit, ices and candy.

Miss Mildred Dilling played the harp at the musicale after dinner. More than 50 guests were present. The king and the queen were in formal evening dress. The table was lighted with candles in gold candlesticks. The White House gold service was used and there were flowers which were reflected in the Dolly Madison mirror which lay in the center of the dining table.

The day was begun with a formal call by their majesties to the White House to pay their respects to the President and Mrs. Hoover. Members of the royal party waited several minutes in the corridor while the President and King Prajadhipok conversed together. Then others were presented to the Chief Executive and to Mrs. Hoover. The visit was as brief as it was formal, lasting about 15 minutes.

Hardly had the royal visitors had time to get back to the palatial Larz Anderson home on Massachusetts avenue, their residence while in Washington, than President and Mrs. Hoover, accompanied by the President's aide, paid them a return visit. This, too, was brief, lasting about 10 minutes.

Then followed calls of other American officials and members of the Diplomatic Corps. Vice President Curtis and Mrs. Dolly Gann, his sister and official hostess, called after the President had gone. Then followed Army and Navy officers, members of the Cabinet, the Justices of the United States Supreme Court, and other American officials and diplomats.

There was not much gold braid and brilliant uniforms in evidence, diplomats wearing formal morning clothes rather than their brilliant dress uniforms. Neither was there much effort to establish precedence in the presentation of the callers. They arrived and were admitted and presented just about in the order of their arrival.

Their majesties lunched privately in their residence, after which they had previously planned to visit Arlington Cemetery and the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Fort Myer and Mount Vernon. But it was there that the king's physician stepped in and forbade him further exertion. Thereupon Prince and Princess Svasti were officially designated to represent their king and their queen—otherwise their son-in-law and daughter—on these visits and they received the salute of 21 guns when they arrived at Fort Myer.

Princess Svasti gave spectators a moment of wonder when she left the regal residence smoking what appeared to be a small and very black cigar. If it had been a cigarette there might not have been so much surprise, but the cigar caught the public gaze. State Department officials explained it was a cheroot, rather than a cigar, and women in Siam smoked such things.

WHITELAW REID'S WIDOW DIES AT 73

Intimate of Royalty Owned Westchester House Used by King of Siam.

Cape Ferrat, France, April 29 (A.P.), Mrs. Whitlaw Ogden Reid, widow of Whitelaw Reid, former Ambassador from the United States to Great Britain, died at 9:50 a. m. today at Rosemary, the home of her daughter, Lady John Ward.

Stricken with a chill on the Atlantic on her way from New York last week, Mrs. Reid's condition grew steadily worse after her arrival in France.

The body will be returned to New York May 9 on the Mauretania. It will be accompanied by Mrs. Reid's daughter, Lady John Ward, and her husband, Sir John Ward, and in the meantime it will be taken to Paris to the home of Mrs. Reid's niece, Countess Granard.

On Saturday Mrs. Reid went to Cape Ferrat in the belief that a visit to the south of France might improve her health.

Her daughter, her son-in-law, and her personal secretary were at the bedside when she died in the Villa Rosemary.

Members of the family said that despite her illness during the brief stay in Paris she took time to inspect the new building of the Paris edition of the New York Herald-Tribune, seeming to be as mindful of its technical details as in those days years ago when she was helpmate to Whitelaw Reid, then a rising New York journalist.

It was the first time she had seen the new plant in working order and, despite her fatigue, she stayed in the building a long time, asking many questions.

Was Widely Known.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—Mrs. Whitelaw Ogden Reid, widow of the one-time Ambassador to Great Britain, who died today in France, was by virtue of her wealth and social prominence one of the best-known women on two continents.

The daughter of a millionaire, the late Darius Ogden Mills, Elizabeth Ogden grew up in a social environment of which she was to become the leader in later life, when she became an intimate of royalty in Europe and Asia.

Just prior to Mrs. Reid's departure, the King and Queen of Siam availed themselves of her offer to occupy her Westchester palace, Ophir Hall, as their residence during their majesties' stay in the United States.

In 1881 she was married to Whitelaw Reid, editor of the New York Tribune. Several years later Reid became the owner, but in later years the paper consolidated with the Herald, to become the Herald-Tribune, which is still owned by the Reid estate.

Reid Named Ambassador.

In 1889 Reid was named special Ambassador to Great Britain. This marked the start of Mrs. Reid's distinction as a hostess of international repute. In 1907 Reid was named Ambassador to the Court of St. James, and they took Dorchester House, which became the Mecca for American society in London.

Their daughter Jean, in whose home Mrs. Reid died today, was married in 1908 to the Hon. John H. Ward, son of the Earl of Dudley. Ogden Mills Reid, their son, married Helen M. Rogers in this country and remained here most of the time to take active charge of the family's newspaper.

When Whitelaw Reid died in 1912, Mrs. Reid gave up her social life and embarked on a business and philanthropic career. She virtually commuted between this country and Europe and often made a dozen or more sea trips a year. Her activities during the war won for her the French Cross of the Legion of Honor and a citation from King George.

London, April 29 (A.P.).—The death of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, widow of the former Ambassador to Great Britain, set English society talking today of the days before the war when, of all the magnificent functions held in London, those given at Dorchester House, over which Mrs. Reid presided, were the most brilliant.

She was a close friend of King Edward VII as well as of King George V and Queen Mary.

Disposal of an estate valued at approximately $1,000,000 is provided in the will of Raliegh Sherman, Washington attorney, filed for probate in Orphans Court at Hagerstown, Md., it was learned in the Capital yesterday.

The estate is divided into five equal parts and several cousins share in it. Full shares are left to Victor M. Smith and Lewis R. Smith, of Sharpsburg, Md.; Harry F. Smith, of Martinsburg, W. Va., and Henry P. Miller, of Atlantic City. A full share is divided between Mrs. Elizabeth P. Norgoore, Seattle, Wash., and Marcellus H. Stow, a student at Cornell University.

Nettie Waldron, colored servant, of Washington, will be given $50 a month until the estate is settled, and then a trust fund of $12,000 provides him with an income for life. Mrs. Horona D. Miller, of Washington, is given $5,000; E. Louise Smith, of Washington, $1,000, and James Rankin, colored janitor, of Washington, $500. Executors are John P. Miller, Charles F. Consual and Francis B. Newbeck, Washington attorneys; George W. White, president of the Metropolitan National Bank, and J. Cleveland Grice, Hagerstown attorney.

Company Asks Bankruptcy.

Debts of $29,217.95 and assets of $802.05 are shown in a schedule filed yesterday by the American Masonic Press, Inc., through H. A. Young, secretary, in a petition asking that the company be adjudged bankrupt.

Thieves entered the drug store of Max Kossow, 644 Massachusetts avenue northeast, early yesterday and stole $158.77 and two pints of whisky from a safe.

REDUCTION IN WAGES SCORED BY LAMONT

told the chamber that the American standard of living did not promise any guaranteed scale of wages and that high industrial wages could be paid only so long as the means was produced to pay them with. He deplored what he characterized as a recession "from the proud standards of personal responsibility of the Nation's past."

Sees Gradual Improvement.

He criticised advertising which sought merely to sell, rather than to sell a legitimate article; also credit machinery for releasing so much purchasing power that an orgy of speculation resulted and said the prosperity period was a period of false business philosophy.

Mr. Stephenson disapproved principles of Government bonuses and employment insurance. He asserted that gradual improvement in business was near and that it would be built on lessons learned in the past decade, on efficiency in plant management and economies of productive processes.

Brief addresses were made by Senator Thomas Gore, of Oklahoma; L. D. H. Weld, of the McCann Erickson Co., New York; R. R. Deupree, president of Procter & Gamble, Cincinnati, and Dr. Wesley C. Mitchell, of Columbia University.

A resolution adopted called for appointment of a committee "to inquire into the feasibility of the establishment of an administrative agency to interpret the needs of industry to Congress or proper governmental authorities."

Its adoption was suggested by Jesse N. Neal, of the American Paper and Pulp Association of New York, who deplored what he termed the lack of action and the amount of talk by the chamber.

FIGHT TO SHUN RULE OF HOUSE LOOMING

fifteen in number, enough to offset the Republican majority over the Democrats, continued to vote for Mr. Allen until the Republican leaders agreed to modify the House rules.

Mr. Gillett then was elected Speaker. The rules, however, were not modified nearly as much as the progressives thought they would be.

Schneider Is Convicted.

Representative George J. Schneider (Republican), of Wisconsin, predicted yesterday that the progressives would put up a third candidate.

"I am convinced there will be a third man," he said. "I believe the progressives will exact an understanding for a liberalization of the rules and for a program of progressive legislation."

The Republican leaders already have decided to grant a liberalization of the House rules in order to appease the progressives. How far they will go in approving progressive bills—the Muscle Shoals bill, for example—remains to be seen. The chances are that Republican leaders in the House will go no farther than Democratic leaders when it comes to espousing progressive legislation.

Tilson and Snell.

While a half dozen or more candidates are being mentioned, the fight for the job of Speaker of the House, an office made vacant by the death of Nicholas Longworth, seems to be between Representative Tilson and Representative Snell. That is, so far as the Republican party is concerned.

On the Democratic side, one man stands out supreme—Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, the Democratic minority leader in the House.

Only one discordant note has been heard so far as Mr. Garner's candidacy is concerned. It is reported that the Tammany group in the House is withholding its support of Mr. Garner until it is assured that Northern Democrats will be given some of the committee chairmanships in the event the Democrats get control.

If seniority rules are followed, the Southern Democrats would virtually dominate the House in case the Democrats won control in December.

WILLIAM M. FOWLER DIES IN KENSINGTON

Inventor and War Veteran Recently Celebrated Sixty-fifth Wedding Date.

William Miles Fowler, 87-year-old inventor, who recently celebrated his sixty-fifth wedding anniversary, died yesterday at the home of his son-in-law, Walter E. Brown, Kensington, Md. He had been ill several months.

Born in Milford, Conn., he passed most of his life in New York, where he was president of the American Photoengraving Co. and owner of the William M. Fowler & Co. sporting goods establishment. He also was interested in the Fowler Bottling Machine Co. of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Fowler moved to Kensington to live with their daughter about seven years ago. They celebrated their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary March 28.

Mr. Fowler, a veteran of the Civil War, served in a light artillery battery from Connecticut. He was a charter member of the Connecticut Branch of the General Society of Colonial Wars and was a member of the Masonic fraternity.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sophia Barnett Fowler, of Kensington; five sons, William N. Fowler, of Jamaica, N. Y.; Fred C. Fowler, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Charles R. Fowler, of Ridgewood, N. Y.; Thomas B. Fowler, Newburgh, N. Y., and Frank R. Fowler, of Stanford, Conn.; two daughters, Mrs. Edward W. Bason, Nutleigh, N. Y., and Mrs. Reginald A. Wright, Akron, Ohio; 27 grandchildren and 7 great-grandchildren. Another daughter, Mrs. Brown, died about a year ago.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Brown residence in Kensington. The Rev. Fred A. Kullmar, pastor of the Warner Memorial Presbyterian Church of Kensington, will conduct the services. Burial will be in Union Cemetery, Rockville, Md.

Lynchburg Crowd Sees Flier Killed

Throngs Awaiting Air Tour Witness Fatal Crash of Stunt Pilot.

Lynchburg, Va., April 29 (A.P.).—Clarence M. Ellicock, 25, of Marysville, Mich., fell to his death here this afternoon in view of a large crowd gathered to greet the second Virginia State air tour and witness dedication of the municipally owned airport.

Ellicock was demonstrating a light sports monoplane. While he was stunting an aileron came losse, spectators said. He was unable to right the ship, and plunged 1,000 feet to almost instant death. The plane was splintered to bits.

Richmond, Va., April 29 (A.P.).—Twenty-five planes carrying 40 passengers left Byrd Airport here today and headed for Fredericksburg as the first step on a four-day State-wide air tour. Seven other planes were to join the tour en route.

The tour, sponsored by the State Highway Department to promote development of airports, provides for visits to 24 communities. Today's itinerary included Fredericksburg, Winchester, Waynesboro, Charlottesville and Lynchburg.

President Will Open Al Smith's Building

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover tomorrow morning will do a favor for Alfred E. Smith, his opponent in the 1928 campaign.

At 10:30 o'clock Mr. Hoover will go to the telegraph room of the White House executive offices and press a button which will cause the doors of the Empire State Building in New York to swing open to the public for the first time. Former Gov. Smith is an official in the organization which constructed the building.

SCHOOLBOY AND KING SHARE ATTENTION AT WHITE HOUSE

Bryan had lunch with him, which was distinctly informal. The President called later on the king, but, on the other hand, the lad slept last night in the blue bedroom, where thousands of distinguished visitors to the Executive Mansions have rested. No king has ever slept there, but Lindbergh has.

To add to the busy day at the White House, Herbert Hoover, jr., who has been recuperating from illness at Asheville, N. C., slipped quietly into the city early in the morning to be warmly greeted by his parents and tempestuously welcomed by his three small children.

Untiedt arrived early yesterday morning with William H. Davenport, a United States Secret Service operative from Kansas City. His departure had been kept secret at the boy's home town, Towner, Colo., and was not made known at the White House until Tuesday night. It was explained that Mr. Hoover did not want the boy bothered on his trip.

Riding from the station in a White House car, Bryan was greeted by Mrs. Hoover, who deserted her work on plans for last night's state dinner in order to make the boy feel at home. He was shown to his room by Irvin Hoover, for 41 years chief usher at the White House, who in that time has ushered thousands in, out and around the mansion.

Officials Kept Waiting Outside.

Mrs. Stark McMullin, long-time friend of the Hoovers and a guest at the White House, took Bryan through the formal south garden to the executive offices, where he sat down and talked with Mr. Hoover for a half-hour. Two high Government officials waited in an outer office until the interview was over because the President did not wish to be disturbed.

When the king and queen arrived a few minutes later Bryan looked out of his bedroom window directly over the front door and saw the king surrounded by aids in gold-braided uniforms step across the threshold, the first time an absolute monarch has ever entered the White House portals.

Shortly after that he watched the President's automobile, its flags flying and motorcycle policemen riding ahead, swing out of the gates to take Mr. Hoover to return the call of the king.

President Tells Funny Stories.

The lunch was a family affair. At the table were President and Mrs. Hoover, Herbert Hoover, jr., and his wife, Mrs. McMullin and one or two other members of the household.

Bryan sat next to Mrs. Hoover and across the table from the President. He was not altogether at ease until Mr. Hoover, observing his embarrassment, began a series of amusing stories.

After luncheon the lad walked back to the executive offices with the President and was photographed with him. No one was allowed an interview and he returned to the White House immediately after the cameras were folded.

Sees King Through Door Crack.

During the afternoon he was taken sightseeing by Mrs. McMullin, a pleasure Mrs. Hoover had hoped for, but was forced to forego on account of other duties.

The schoolboy last night stood in a corridor on the main floor of the White House and through a crack in the door watched the arrival of one of the most brilliant assemblies seen at the Executive Mansion in many years.

He saw the guests received in the blue room and later saw the formal procession, headed by President Hoover, with the queen on his arm, march to the high open-paneled state dining room.

Today Bryan will be taken on another sightseeing trip in addition to having luncheon again with the President and his family.

Eats Same Food as King.

His meal last night was served him in the children's dining room on the third floor. He was served the same kind of food which was placed before the king.

Late in the day, Bryan returned to the White House and had another chat with President Hoover. He described his trip to the Washington Monument and to the Capitol, which he took with Mrs. McMullin.

Shortly afterward, Mrs. Hoover found herself free for a short time and loaded Bryan into her open car along with the Hoover grandchildren and took another spin about the city. Mrs. Hoover drove the car herself through heavy traffic.

Boy to See All Sights.

President Hoover, through his secretary, Theodore Joslin, let it be known he wanted Bryan to have a thorough visit to the Capital, and said the boy would be a welcome guest at the White House until he had seen all the sights he should see.

During the lunch with the President, Bryan, at Mr. Hoover's request, recounted incidents connected with the school bus tragedy in the Colorado blizzard.

Bryan was left in charge of a bus full of children by the driver, who went to seek help when the bus stalled in a snow bank. The driver perished. Two days later, when airplanes found the bus, five of the children were frozen to death. In his efforts to keep his schoolmates alive, Bryan removed his own outer clothing to cover some of his younger companions.

been established. He acknowledged Congress must share the responsibility for these commissions, but said it had originated only one or two of them.

"In Washington," he added, "treason may be said to consist of a conspiracy to prevent increase of salaries or to abolish an office or to refuse to create an office—especially commissions.

"A bureaucratic government is the most wasteful, the most demoralizing, and most inefficient form of government yet conceived. It is idle to talk about reducing Government expenditures until there is a plan to curb bureaucracy."

REBUILD YOUR STRENGTH
the new strength that comes with taking S.S.S.
. . . particularly is this IMPORTANT in the spring, after colds, flu and sickness

MANY are weakened by the epidemics of colds and flu in winter and the body therefore has less resistance against further disease attacks.

When your vitality is low—you feel weak—have lost your appetite, the chances are that cold or the flu or some other sickness has destroyed many of your red-blood-cells and your body has not the strength to properly assimilate and use the food you eat.

When your red-blood-cells are reduced to 80% you are not yourself. 60% is dangerous. Your body may be demanding more red-blood-cells. You need these health-building and health-sustaining cells to build and repair tissue and give you strength.

S.S.S. is famed for its ability to increase the red-blood-cells. This is why for over 100 years it has been popular for toning up the system—especially in the spring. And being purely vegetable, S.S.S. has no harmful effects upon the system.

Every spring countless thousands take S.S.S. to build back their red-blood-cells so that they may have that new strength which makes for a keen appetite, firm flesh, a clear skin and greater resistance against infection and disease. You, too, will want to take S.S.S. for this very reason. Select the larger size as it holds double the quantity and represents a price-saving.

BETTER HIGHWAYS SOUGHT IN FAIRFAX

Projects Recommended by County Board Favored by Pomona Grange.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County Pomona Grange, meeting in the Woodlawn Community Hall as guests of the Mount Vernon Grange, indorsed the program being prepared by the committee of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce suggesting improvements in the State highway system in Fairfax County. The tentative list of suggestions to be made to the State highway commission was outlined by W. F. P. Reid, chairman of the chamber's committee. The grange emphasized necessity of widening the roadway and bridges on the Washington-Richmond highway, the Little River turnpike and the bridge at Colvin Run on the Alexandria-Leesburg pike.

The Pomona Grange also indorsed all road projects recommended by the county board of supervisors now pending before the State highway commission and stressed importance of completing the program prior to the bicentennial celebration next year. This includes the straightening, widening and hard surfacing the road from the Penn Daw Hotel on the Richmond highway to the Masonic Temple on the Lee-Jackson highway, and the construction of the proposed road from Mount Vernon to the Richmond highway at Woodlawn.

The spelling bee proposed by members of the Centerville Grange was indorsed by the Pomona Grange and the worthy master appointed the following committee to arrange the details of the county-wide contest: Mrs. A. Harmon Roberts, lecturer of Mount Vernon Grange; Mrs. Milton Hartley, of Pioneer Grange; Mrs. Marvin Sangers, of Great Falls Grange; Mrs. Maurice K. Stroud, of Floris Grange, and Edward D. Vosbury, of Centerville Grange.

The secretary was instructed to invite members of the Washington granges to meet at Oakton at the next meeting of the Fairfax, Pomona Grange. The Pomona Grange will put on a special program during the lecturer's hour. The grange placed itself on record as favoring stricter enforcement of the State law forbidding children under 16 years old to drive automobiles and prosecution of "one-light" drivers.

The Fourth District convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will be held today and tomorrow in Manassas. The Manassas Chapter, under leadership of Mrs. Charles A. Sinclar, president, has made elaborate plans for entertainment of the large number of delegates. A committee with Mrs. S. C. Compton as chairman has arranged for automobile tours so that the visiting delegates can visit the scenes of the first and second battles of Manassas, including Bull Run and other historical points.

Among principal speakers at the business meetings will be Mayor Harry P. Davis, of Manassas, who will welcome the visitors; Mrs. C. E. Boiling, of Richmond, who will talk on the U. D. C. work in the Fourth Virginia District, and John W. Rust, of Fairfax, who will explain the plans of the Bull Run Battlefield Association in establishing a national park near Manassas.

Delegates attending the convention from the councils of Fairfax County will include Mrs. L. B. Eaton and Miss Annie Woodard, of the Fairfax Chapter; Mrs. George C. White and Mrs. A. F. Moon, of Burke, the Confederate States Chapter; Mrs. Harry A. Fellows, Mrs. B. E. Hummer, Mrs. W. L. Turner and Mrs. H. T. Payne, of Falls Church, the Robert E. Lee Chapter.

United States postal authorities are considering the practicability of making a change in the rural delivery routes in the Franconia neighborhood. The routes from Springfield and Burke might be consolidated under Rural Carrier John W. Brookfield, of Springfield rouet. This would give him a route more than 50 miles long and if the tentative plans are adopted the change will go into effect about May 1.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Providence Council, Daughters of America, at Fairfax, was celebrated with special ceremonies. The eight survivors of the twenty charter members were presented with 25-year certificates for continuous membership in good standing by Mrs. Clinton A. Lane, of Vienna, district deputy State president. Members receiving certificates were George Watkins, 77 years old; Mrs. Fannie Perls, 74; Mrs. Mary Dindlebeck, 70; Samuel Sisson, 65; Mrs. Sarah Martin, 75; Ernest Jerman, 60, and Cecil O'Bannon, 44, all of Fairfax, and Mrs. Sara Dewey, 71, of Clarendon. Principal speakers were O. B. Hopkins, of Alexandria, national deputy, who assisted in organizing the Providence Council 25 years ago, and Mrs. Sophie Mann, of Cherrydale, State vice councillor.

Mayor L. P. Daniel, of the town of Falls Church, has received a report on the survey made by United States geologists concerning the ground water supply in and about Falls Church. The report was turned over by Mayor Daniel to the engineering subcommittee of the town water system for consideration. The report discussed the ground water situation at length and indicates the probability of securing enough water to supply the town's demand from deep wells, if that type of supply is necessary. It was recommended that wells be drilled at points of elevation in the neighborhood of 300 feet.

The Ladies' Social Club of the St. John's Catholic Church at El Nido, will hold a business meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Raymond Kane in McLean.

HYATTSVILLE BANK PRECIPITATES ROW

Taxpayers' Chief Hits Offer of Building for County Office Use.

J. Frank Lillard, president of the Taxpayers Association of Prince Georges County, yesterday questioned the motives which led T. Howard Duckett, of the Buburban Sanitary Commission, to recommend that the county rent the old First National Bank Building, of Hyattsville, to house branches of the county government.

"Does Mr. Duckett favor the First National Bank Building, with all its dignity, as a site for a jail and police court in the interest of the taxpayer, or is he trying, with his influence which he hopes to exert with the Princes Georges County Commissioners, to unload his unprofitable investment to the extent of $100,000 on the taxpayers without their knowledge or consent?" Mr. Lillard asked.

Mr. Ducket, in addition to being a member of the sanitary commission, is vice president of the Prince Georges Bank and Trust Co., which owns the First National building. Some time ago he issued a statement pointing out the advantages of the bank site for the county building.

Mr. Lillard says that the cost of utilizing the bank building would be very high, as it would need remodeling, and the rent of $500 a month, authorized by the recent Legislature, would beout of proportion. J. Enos Ray, presidentof the Prince Georges Bank, however, in offering it to the county commissioners, said the rent might be lowered.

Rental of a building to house the Police Court and other Government offices in Hyattsville was authorized by the recent legislature, which also made a provision for a new temporary lock-up to replace the present one in Bladensburg. The rental was not to exceed $500 per month. Considerable opposition to the bank building site has developed, part of it because of its alleged unsuitability for a jail location.

Mr. Duckett could not be reached last night for an answer.

A circuit court jury yesterday took only ten minutes to find Harold McKey guilty of assault with intent to kill on Harry Melton, a taxicab driver who was struck over the head with a piece of lead pipe last March in an alleged hold-up attempt. McKey was not sentenced yesterday.

Melton, although he was in a Washington hospital several months after the assault, said yesterday that he felt sorry for McKey, after the man was found guilty. Melton was found near Brentwood in an unconscious condition several hours after he was beaten over the head.

Samuel Spencer, colored, was found guilty of second-degree murder in connection with the death of Edward Cole, alias John Fleet, of Croome. Cole was shot to death as he stood in front of Galloway's store in Croome several months ago.

Two men were fined yesterday by Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Hyattsville Police Court on charges of illegal possession of liquor. They were John B. Gentle, of T street near Fourteenth street northwest, and John B. Branch, of Patterson street northeast near North Capitol street.

Branch was convicted of having six 5-gallon cans of alcohol in his machine when he was arrested on the Baltimore boulevard, and was fined $200. Jack Rodrick, a passenger in the car, was also charged with possession. The case against Rodrick, however, was nolle prossed after the conviction of Branch.

Gentle was accused of having sixteen cases of liquor in his machine when it was stopped on the Defense highway by Officer R. E. Brown. Gentle's fine was also $200.

Four young boys, whose ages range from 6 to 13 years, were brought into court on charges of assault and battery on three other young boys. The four, Edward Giddins, 7; George Giddins, 6; Melville Grove, 7, and Milton Sims, 13, were released after being warned by Judge Sheriff.

The boys are alleged to have waylaid and beaten Frank J. Blodgett, 11; John F. Blodgett, 9, and Albert Blodgett, 8. Their father, Frank J. Blodgett, swore out the warrant.

Joseph H. Hill, of Ninth street northwest near Crittenden street, forfeited $25 rather than face a charge of speeding. Edward C. Sim, of Berwyn, who appeared to stand trial on a similar charge, was fined $25.

John F. Conklin, of Towson, Md., was fined $25 for reckless driving, and $1 for speeding, while Abraham Isaac Davidson on Ninth street northwest near Crittenden street, was sentenced to pay $15 for failing to keep to the right and $1 for reckless driving.

Driving his car on the Washington, Brandywine, and Point Lookout railroad at Hall's Station, Md., Bowie Clagett, of Marlboro narrowly escaped death as his auto was struck by a train. He was thrown from the machine when the engine hit it.

According to Sheriff W. C. Hopkins, whose store is near the station, Clagett did not see the approaching train because of freight cars parked on a siding. Mr. Clagett turned his car aside on sighting the train, but too late to save it from being hit. It was completely wrecked.

Although he said that he lost control of his car when the brakes locked, Meyer Mollen, of Richmond, Va., was held in bond of $100 for reckless driving after the auto crashed into the plate glass window of a laundry in Hyattsville.

Mollen said that the car was going about 15 miles an hour at the time of the accident. He was arrested after the crash by Albert Anderson, chief of police of Hyattsville.

The county board of supervisors yesterday adopted the budget of $768,778.26 for the year begininng July 1, 1931.

A fire protection levy increase of 5 cents was offset by a like reduction in Arlington and Washington districts in the road fund. In Jefferson District the road fund reduction was 10 cents. The tax rate in both Arlington and Washington Districts will be the same as last year, in the former $2.50 and the latter $2.65. In Jefferson District the rate is reduced 5 cents to $2.45.

After announcement by Resident State Highway Engineer Robert I. Mount that the memorial being erected by Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, is on the state highway, and as no permit has been given for it, it would have to be removed, George D. Ricker, commander, yesterday threatened to appeal to Gov. John G. Pollard if necessary.

Asked by Mount, "Are you going to move it, or will we?" Ricker replied, "We are not, and I doubt if you will."

Ricker stated that a permit was given for erection of the memorial by the board of supervisors several months ago.

Beyond saying that a question of right of way is involved, Mount would make no statement as to its removal.

Members of the Washington Rescue Squad, after working over William T. Hollidge, of 18 South Virginia avenue, Clarendon, for more than half an hour, failed to revive him from the effects of inhaling gas from a range in his kitchen.

He was found by his wife and brother, H. T. Hollidge, when they returned from Washington, slumped in a chair with a tube in his hand connected to the gas range.

Dr. B. H. Swain issued a certificate of suicide. Hollidge is survived by his widow and two children.

County Democratic Chairman William L. Bragg announced last night that the committee will meet at the courthouse tonight to make arrangements for the Democratic primary to choose candidates for the State Senate and House of Delegates.

A Circuit Court jury yesterday rendered a verdict for the defendant in the case of Susan F. Howland against the Rosslyn Gas Co. The suit was for $5,000 damages for alleged injuries sustained as a result of falling over a pipe in Ballston. State Senator Frank L. Ball represented the Gas Co., while Attorney Amos C. Crounse represented the plaintiff.

The Arlington Citizens Association last night after considering the question of an adequate approach to the new Memorial Bridge from Columbia pike, authorized appointment of a special committee to study the question. The committee consists of H. S. Friwald, chairman T. J. Flynn, George A. Collier, James Head and J. H. Craig.

The committee was requested to decide upon a route that would combine safety, convenience and lowest possible cost of construction.

It was pointed out that Saturday is the last day for paying poll taxes, enabling citizens to vote at the November election.

LAWYER WINS WRIT AS FACE IS SLAPPED

At a hearing which was enlivened by a face slapping, Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Arlington County circuit court, yesterday issued a writ of mandamus ordering the board of supervisors to pay John S. Barbour, an attorney, who was one of the combatants, $7,500 which he claims is due him for professional services rendered during the recent annexation case involving Arlington County and the City of Alexandria.

A heated exchange of words between Mr. Barbour and B. M. Hedrick, member of the board of supervisors, came to a climax when the former slapped Hedrick. Each immediately apologized for his conduct and no disciplinary action was taken by the court.

Capt. Crandal Mackey, representing the board, noted an appeal from Judge McCarthy's decision.

The court entered an order suspending the execution of the mandamus for 60 days upon the giving of a bond of $8,000 by the board of supervisors, conditioned upon the payment of the judgment in the event the board fails to get a writ of error or fails to secure a reversal on appeal.

Attorney Christopher Garnett appeared for Mr. Barbour.

CONTESTANTS URGED TO LEARN OF FIRMS

Familiarity With Companies Goes Long Way Toward Winning Ad Prizes.

Have you got that $1,000 idea yet? Some one is going to write an ad about one of the 35 concerns participating in The Post Zain Ad-Writing Contest which the judges are going to award. Why not you?

All you need to do is familiarize yourself with these participating concerns, get a pencil, large sheet of paper, don your "thinking cap" and get busy, after carefully reading the rules which appear on this page. Each week, no doubt, on reading the prize-winning ads some of you say, "Why, I had a better idea than that." May we remind you that those ideas do not win prizes unless they are put on paper and mailed to the editor of The Post Zain Ad-Writing Contest at The Washington Post.

Write lots and lots of ads every day—resolve to win a prize. The first prize of $100 cash, which has been increased to $110 if the winner is a regular daily and Sunday subscriber to The Washington Post, will be given May 7, one week from today.

This contest is for amateurs only. Every one has an equal chance. Why not give yourself a fair chance of winning by writing many differnet types of ads each day—some slogans, some witty phrases, some regular ads, in fact, all the forms of ads it is possible for you to write? If one of your ads does not win first prize perhaps you will win the $165 ABC Washer or one of those three strands of Triple X Richelieu pearls. If you do not win one of those prizes, try for one of the 525 merchandise prizes or a quart of Avignone Freres delicious ice cream. One hundred quarts will be given to authors of prize-winning ads for this combined third and fourth ad-writing period.

Many Special Prizes.

Never give up; if your ads don't win one of these prizes there are hosts of special prizes which these concerns are giving weekly and at the close of the contest. You have a wonderful chance of winning one of these prizes, a list of which is published daily in a box on the same page as these editorials appear Always remember this, the more ads you write the greater your chance of winning. If you don't win at the close of one ad writing period, keep on trying, double your efforts and you will wind up a winner. To win that $1,000 to be given for the best ad written during the entire contest, you must write at least one ad about each of the 35 participating concerns. Don't overlook that extra $50 The Post will give the winner of the $1,000, providing he or she is a regular daily and Sunday subscriber to The Washington Post.

Are you starting your day with a cup of that delicious Wilkins coffee? Good! It certainly does have an unusual aroma and flavor, doesn't it? Now that you've had your cup let's get started right. First, always read the latest about this fascinating, easy game of ad writing and then write your ads. Hosts and hosts of prizes are going to be given. You can win just as easily as your neighbor. Here is how easy it is.

Thomas E. Clark, Inc.

This concern lends itself to excellent ad writing because it exists for only one purpose—to serve. Emphasize the reliability of the complete line of standard fixtures the firm carries. Let your ad tell about the rare beauty of these modern futuristic plumbing fixtures for the home. Bring out the progress this concern has made since the year it was established in 1891 and the factors instrumental in making it one of the leading concerns in the business. Tell about their new acid resisting fixtures, their two unique jobbing trucks, only a part of their equipment for prompt service. Feature their machine shop, which further insures prompt and efficient service. You might mention that all the fixtures are priced for the convenience of the public and in passing through the store one can instantly select the fixtures within their means through the medium of this system. Be sure and incorporate in your ads the easy plan of payment. For more add writing suggestions go to this modern up-to-date plumbing fixture store at 3407 Connecticut avenue—then write your ads and win that $20 merchandise order they are going to give for the best ad written about their concern during the entire contest.

Potomac Electric Power Co.

What better subject for an ad than this concern of "matchless service?" Some of our readers have the wrong version for ads about this concern and we want them to be prize winners, and are going to give a few tips on just what to write so they can write twice as many correct ads on this concern to make up for ads in which they featured electric appliances instead of the power and electricity. In your ads tell about the electric rate of 4.2 cents per kwh. being one of the cheapest in the country, thereby enabling the Washingtonians to use more of the electric appliances and lighten their household tasks. Incorporate in your ad the fact that for seven consecutive years the Potomac Power Co. has reduced electric rate until now Washingtonians are paying 58 per cent less for power than they were in 1924. Call the Potomac Power Co., find out their special major appliance rate for major appliances, and any other information you may want to use in your ads. Then get busy and write the ads.

Starlight Dry Cleaners.

Here is an easy theme for ad writers. Weave into your ad how old clothing is magically changed into new when returned from Starlight Dry Cleaners. Explain the system they use, the prompt and courteous service they give, the reasonable prices they offer and all those features that have won for them a reputation of reliable and efficient cleaners.

Westinghouse Refrigeration.

The Edgar Morris Sales offer a big opportunity to win one of those worthwhile prizes in ads about the new Westinghouse Refrigerator. This subject is especially easy and apt ads can be written about this nationally known refrigerator. List in your ads some or all of the 24 reasons why this refrigerator should be chosen in preference to the others. Tell about its economical operation, its quiet operation, its positive permanent lubrication, its two-year warranty. Tell about its wonderful performance, its perfect satisfaction and the numerous other qualities which make it the best refrigerator on the market. This refrigerator combined with the excellent service Morris Sales offer should give material for many prize winning ads.

National Ginger Ale.

National Pale Dry Ginger Ale, the Capital's favorite drink, should suggest many prize winning ads to you. Tell the public in your ad why it is increasing in distribution and sales. Bring out the fact that only the purest materials are used in its manufacture and the accurate mixture of its ingredients is what gives it that distinctive flavor unequalled by any other ginger ale. Remember Guggenheim & Co. is giving a case of this famous beverage to the winner of the $100 cash prize and also a case to the author of the best ad written about their concern weekly, as well as a carton of six to the next four ads selected. Since the third and fourth weeks have been combined two cases will be given and 8 people will receive cartons of six. Get busy. It isn't a bit hard to describe this deliciously different ginger ale.

Remember, each day brings The Post-Zain ad writing contest that much closer to the end. Be a winner. Don't delay another day—write your ads now and mail them to the editor of The Post-Zain Ad-Writing contest at The Washington Post.

TWO FAIR ZAIN AD BOOSTERS

Royal Cord Tire for having written the best ad for the Bailey Tire Stores in the second week of The Post-Zain Amateur Ad-Writing Contest.

Just think and get that idea for yourself next week, as you may be the winner of this special prize given by the Bailey Tire Store. Place your own name and address, also telephone number, on the reverse of the advertisement and the envelope. Your contribution may be a slogan, a poem, a regular advertisement, a letter of testimonial, or an essay.
10—Winning advertisements will be selected by a committee of advertising experts. In the event of a tie like awards will be made to both.
11—All advertisements received become the property of the concerns about which they are written.

Ad-Writing Suggestions.

Prizes are given for ideas, not for grammar, spelling, punctuation, art work or layout.
Your ideas are likely to be new and original; your idea may win one of the prizes.
If you are not familiar with the advertisers about whom you are asked to write ads, study their service and merchandise; visit their shops, ask questions, and then jot down your ideas simply. Be brief and to the point.
If you can write a letter, you can write an ad. Get members of your family and your friends interested. Encourage them to write winning ads. Send in your amateur Ad. to the Post-Zain Ad-Contest Editor, Washington Post, Washington, D. C.

Fort Myer Boy Scout Cubs Will Form Mounted Pack

Troop to Be Organized in Vice President Curtis' Office Today Will Be First of Its Kind in United States.

Organization of the first mounted Boy Scout cub pack in the United States is being completed among 32 youths at Fort Myer, the sons of officers and enlisted men at the fort and officers stationed in the War Department here.

At Fort Leavenworth and Fort Riley, Kans., are the only two Boy Scout mounted troops in the country, the members also being Army officers' sons, with the age limit being the usual Boy Scout minimum of 12 years. Cub packs, including youths from 9 to 12 years old, number four in the District at the present time.

The pack at Fort Myer will be instructed in horsemanship on horses at the post, and will be offered other advantages not available elsewhere.

Vice President Curtis is acting as sponsor of the Fort Myer pack because of membership of his grandson, Curtis George, son of Maj. C. P. George, of the Sixteenth Field Artillery, stationed at the post. A meeting will be held in Vice President Curtis' offices at 11 o'clock this morning for signing the application of the pack. Present will be members of the committee forming the pack, which include also Maj. George, Col. Harry Myer; Maj. A. D. Surles, Chaplain R. C. Delbert and Maj. A. W. Waldron.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 29.—The University of Virginia will be visited this week-end by more than 800 high and preparatory school representatives who will participate Friday and Saturday in the annual Virginia High School Literary and Athletic League meet.

A check-up by Charles J. Kauffmann, secretary of the league, reveals that a total of 102 schools will be represented in the contests, and that entrants will be accompanied by 117 faculty advisers and coaches. Friends of contestants will bring the total number of visitors close to 1,500.

A total of 173 pupils from 61 schools will compete for honors in the literary contests. Twelve will come from three private schools, 29 from six Class A schools, 72 from 20 Class B schools, and 60 from 32 Class C schools. Accompanying these contestants will be 53 coaches.

The track meet will attract the largest entry list in the history of the league. Six private schools will send 75 contestants, while from four Class A schools will come 46 entries; from eleven Class B schools, 66 entries, and from fourteen Class C schools, 56 entries. Accompanying the athletes will be 58 coaches.

Six schools will send doubles teams to compete in tennis matches.

A varied program of entertainment has been provided for the visitors. Friday afternoon Prof. Pratt will give an organ recital in the McIntire Amphitheater, and at night the University Glee Club, in cooperation with the Virginia Players, will present Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury." The telescope at the Leander McCormick Observatory will be available to the visitors later in the evening and dancing and refreshments will follow in Madison Hall.

At 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning field events and track preliminaries will be run off, and two trips have been planned for those not interested in track. The first will be a tour of the university, and the second a trip to Monticello, in cars furnished by the Chamber of Commerce.

After the Saturday finals in reading, debating and public speaking, announcements and awarding of trophies will be made in Madison Hall, following which there will be a reception for contestants, with music, refreshments and dancing.

GREETING PREPARED FOR BLOSSOM QUEEN

Patricia Morton, British Girl, to B Creowned by Byrd in Virginia.

Winchester, Va., April 29 (A.P.).—Winchester today was prepared to receive Miss Patricia Morton, Queen Shenandoah VIII, upon her arrival here Friday for the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival Tuesday and Wednesday.

A Winchester reception committee was in New York today to receive the Blossom Queen upon her arrival from Winchester, England. She and her mother, Mrs. Evelyn Morton Stroud, sailed from Southampton April 22 aboard the liner Homeric.

She will be crowned queen of the festival by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who has definitely accepted the invitation to perform the coronation, before a court of more than twoscore of princesses, representing thirteen States. The court scene will be complete with maids of honor, pages, heralds, guards of honor and personal guards.

One of the biggest bands that has ever participated in a Winchester festival will march in the queen's parade Wednesday. It will be the District of Columbia High School Cadet Band, of Washington, including 150 youths from Capital City high schools.

All of the valley's 12,000,000 apple trees have burst into bloom, and the blossoms were expected to be as nearly perfect as possible by the middle of next week.

Cavern Is Found In West Virginia

Subterranean Corridor Is Said to Rival Shenandoah Valley Caves.

Special to The Washington Post.

Moorfield, W. Va., April 29.—Hardy County explorers have discovered a series of caverns near the top of South Fork Mountain, close by Elkhorn Rock, where there are great sinks, which they declare surpass in beauty the largest of the Shenandoah Valley caverns.

A hole on a hillside near the farms of John Mongold and Samuel Shaffer, said to be about 60 feet deep, was selected for the venture. A windlass with a steel cable was set up. The explorers found that, instead of 60 feet, the hole was 170 feet down to the first landing. Thence they descended over precipitous cliffs into a great subterranean corridor 1,000 feet or more in length, 30 feet wide and in some places 100 feet high.

Inside the great chamber were found gigantic stalactites and stalagmites formed by the water drippings of centuries.

Institute Speakers Are Named.

Chestertown, Md., April 29 (Special).—Dr. William Brown, of the department of economics, University of Maryland, and Dr. Edward L. Israel, chairman of the Baltimore Commission on Employment Stabilization, have accepted invitations to lecture before the fourth annual Eastern Shore Institute of Public Affairs to be held at Washington College here May 9.

41 DIE, SCORES HURT IN EGYPTIAN WRECK

fitted with means of signaling the situation to the engineer.

By the time the train was stopped the coaches were heaped with dead and burning bodies, and bodies were strewn back along the track to the point at which the flames first appeared. Many of those who leaped were killed outright; others writhed in agony from complicated fractures.

Witnesses told of efforts of the frenzied passengers to attract the engineer's attention by waving garments from the windows.

At least ten children are among the dead. Only one foreigner, a Frenchwoman, is known to have been killed. The rest of the known dead are Egyptians. Many of the bodies are so charred as to be unrecognizable. It was expected several of the more seriously injured would not survive.

The flames were fanned by the high speed of the train and burned practically all the inflammable material in the coaches, leaving only the red-hot iron undercarriages which, because of their heat, handicapped the rescue and relief work.

The engineer was arrested pending an official investigation and the inquests, which will be held at Benha.

years, he said decision was reached to release it August 20, of the following year, and a new $325,000 trust was put on the building. He said the difference was partly made up by Arthur R. Guy, of Philadelphia, and partly by Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co.

Sullivan continued the examination when the Marquette, another of the bankrupt company's released properties, came up. Rheem's testimony showed that originally a first trust of $285,000 was placed on the property, but that this was released and another for $260,000 substituted, when a loan was arranged with the Union Trust Co. and the Washington Loan & Trust Co.

Procedure followed in the Broadmoor transaction, when a $150,000 second trust note was "purchased" to make up the difference in the two trusts, was followed in the case of the Marquette, where a $25,000 second trust note was "purchased." Sullivan again questioned the purchase of the note, insisting it was "merely a bookkeeping entry."

An adjournment until Friday, May 8, at 1:30 p. m., was announced by the referee at the close of the hearing. Other properties in which Howar was interested will be taken up at that time.

A CHANCE FOR LEADERSHIP.

Business and industry throughout the country are looking hopefully to the United States Chamber of Commerce for leadership. Never before has a session of this great commercial association attracted such widespread interest. The United States is in the midst of one of the most severe depressions the country has ever experienced. Virtually every one believes that the bottom has been reached, but readiness to make commitments toward rebuilding the Nation's industrial and commercial structure is not yet in evidence. Business men are waiting to hear the advice of this national organization, and their plans will, in large measure, be shaped in accordance with the consensus of opinion expressed in Atlantic City.

It is the privilege of the Chamber of Commerce to take the lead in counteracting the depression. No one expects that this or any other organization will work a miracle, but a concrete manifestation of confidence in the future will go a long way toward promoting an upswing of business. All speakers before the chamber have voiced their faith in the continued progress of industrial America. But something more definite, susceptible of immediate application, is demanded.

The greatest contribution that the Chamber of Commerce could make to the return of prosperity would be a determined stand against wage slashing. Up to this time wages have been fairly well maintained. For the most part industrial leaders have considered maintenance of the country's purchasing power as the backbone of stability. If organized commerce and industry have the courage to extend this bridge of high wages all the way across the chasm the depths of depression may be avoided.

Secretary of Commerce Lamont points out that the most prosperous periods in the Nation's history are those "coincident with high wages and shorter hours." Industrial economists assert that mass production without high purchasing power by the working class is impossible. Such manufacturers as Henry Ford announce that wages shall not be cut in their plants or in the factories that supply them with materials. The welfare of American industry is tied up in the present question of maintaining wages.

A few bankers and international economists are anxious to have wages cut. That is the European method of recuperating from an economic derangement. But Europe does not depend upon mass consumption for its prospertiy, as does America. If purchasing power of the masses is reduced in this country the whole structure of business will be reduced to a lower level.

The cost of living has been reduced, but the process of mechanization goes on. Machines are not capable of consuming the products of industry. How can industry hope to regain its former stride unless the purchasing power of the people is maintained? The slump in prices and the maintenance of wages have done much to iron out the disparity between production and purchasing power which was brought about by the boom of 1928 and 1929. If industry allows itself to be guided by hard facts and experience of the past, high wages will continue to be paid even at the expense of dividends.

The country fell into the depression without the slightest warning, like a stream tumbling over a fall. Foresight was shamefully lacking. It is time for organized business and industry to make use of accumulated intelligence. The road leading out of the depression is somewhat obscure. But the first steps, such as the maintenance of wages, are apparent to every one who understands the rudiments of the American economic structure. The Chamber of Commerce should immediately set its face like flint against the bankers and money lenders who are agitating for the reduction of wages.

EMERGENCY BUDGETS.

The British budget announcement appears to have found favor as an easy, if confessedly makeshift, arrangement for the current year. The clever chancellor of the exchequer, Philip Snowden, made no bones of the fact that he was willing to take any shelter in the midst of the world-wide "economic blizzard." He regarded this budget, like a war budget, "as dealing with a temporary emergency, and justifying temporary means." Confronting a dreadful financial srtingency, the chancellor said, "I feel justified in seeking, as the lesser of two evils, relief by the means of nonrecurrent revenues and temporary expedients."

This frankness has pleased the British public, hopeful that another year will see better times and more favorable conditions for the adjustment of permanent tax measures. Meanwhile, common men are happy that the extra imposts on tobacco and beer did not materialize, motorists are philosophically offsetting increased petrol tax with recent reductions in gasoline costs, and the land owner, at least, finds some consolation in the fact that the proposed new penny-a-pound tax, about four-tenths of 1 per cent, on his acres can not be in to be enforced for a couple of years yet.

There may be some helpful suggestions for this country in the British action on the budget during a time of extensive unemployment and business depression. Giving opportunist temporary consideration to an abnormal situation may be sound business policy. With the United States Treasury years in advance of the original schedule in the matter of public debt reduction, the possibility of diminishing or passing entirely for a year these payments is something that has been frequently pointed out as a means of meeting a substantial part of the Federal deficit. President Hoover has already stressed, as did the British chancellor, the necessity for strict economy in the administration of all departments of the Government as a first requisite if increased taxes are to be avoided. If Congress will be reasonable in its appropriation program, in connection with transitory budget adjustments, the country will get through another year to better times without serious dislocation of finances.

CHINA'S TROUBLES GROW.

Over 4,000,000 men under arms are living upon impoverished China. Three-fourths of them are the mercenary troops of the government, 280 divisions operating over the widespread bandit-ridden territory that is gradually falling under the domination of Communists in the north and of revolutionary leaders in the south. The situation is one that constantly grows more difficult and desperate for the Nanking government.

The hold of the red bandit armies on four provinces is spreading to the far northwest, the Provinces of Shensi, Shansi and Kansu. Communist military forces are not only dominating the territory, but red propaganda has undermined the ancient faith of the people, so that the last restraining influence has been removed. Government garrisons that are sent to numerous towns barricade themselves and give little help to surrounding territory.

Conditions in southwest China, meanwhile, appear equally unfavorable for Nanking. The "Kwangsi clique" threatens to set up an opposition "central government of China," with Yunnanfu as the capital. This group has been in open opposition to the Nanking government for several years. It holds all of the Kwangsi Province and is extending southward in the Yunnan Province. If the southern factions go so far as to set up an opposition government it is predicted that a revival of civil war in the north in addition to the invasion under Soviet leaders may be expected.

Banditry and piracy are not confined to the interior. Recent reports from Shanghai tell of the operations of pirates within a comparatively few miles of that city of 3,000,000 inhabitants, ranking seventh among the seaports of the world. One Zoong commands such a strong force that he levies tribute from towns and fishing companies, selling them "banner protection." The village or company that purchases a banner from this racketeer for $120 and keeps it flying conspicuously is guaranteed immunity from raids.

That the central authority's confidence in its own strength is none too great is shown by its resort to the ancient practice of buying off generals instead of defeating them. It is said that the Nanking government has offered a "travel expense grant" to Marshal Wu Pei-Fu, so that he may gratify his expressed wish to "visit foreign lands and study reconstruction methods." The overtures to the marshal are reported to have been made when it was learned that he was about to head a new revolution in the Province of Szechuan. Nanking is also said to have made a "farewell" gift of $200,000 to the leader of last year's rebellion, Gen. Yen Hsi-Shan, upon his departure for Japan.

BACKWARD STATES.

Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, has taken up the cry of former Senator Grundy that the "backward States" have too much to say about national legislation. Mr. Beck fears that unless the disproportionate allocation of political power to the States is corrected, the American Union may again be threatened by a clash of sectional interests.

This question has come to the front because of the depression. The less populous States are clamoring for Federal aid. Many millions of dollars were appropriated for relief in one form or another at the last session of Congress. Most of it is being spent in the so-called "backward States." On the other hand, the greater part of Federal revenue is contributed by taxpayers in the older industrial States. Mr. Beck points out that North Dakota drew from the Federal Treasury in 1930 306 per cent of what it paid in; Wyoming received 319 per cent of its contributions. But New York obtained less than 1 per cent of the taxes its citizens paid; Pennsylvania about 3 per cent, and Illinois less than 2 per cent. These three States pay more than one-half of all Federal income taxes, but draw only an insignificant percentage of Federal appropriations.

What does Mr. Beck propose to do about it? Would he abolish the Senate, which, he says, is controlled by 25 States with one-fourth of the country's population? Or would he merely revamp the Senate into a second House of Representatives?

Representative Beck points to the extension of Federal bureaucratic powers. The unequal distribution of political power in the Senate is not keenly felt until Congress indulges in paternalistic legislation. But when Congress votes a few hundred million dollars for a dam, the chief purpose of which is to furnish water and power for a certain metropolitan area; when additional millions are spent for internal improvements in the less populous States; and when the representatives of States which pay very little taxes clamor for an unemployment dole, then a system of unequal representation becomes extremely distasteful.

Mr. Beck goes to extremes when he says there is no distribution of political power. Apparently he would exonerate the House from blame for the present tendency. But the membership of the House is apportioned on a population basis. Why do not the representatives of the great manufacturing States of the East put a stop to these drafts upon the Treasury for special privileges? The Constitution gives the House control of the Nation's purse strings for that very purpose. The Senate can not squander millions on socialistic projects and relief measures unless they are first passed upon by the House. Why does not the House strike out boldly for a return to the fundamentals of government and leave the States to their own local problems?

The House can not avoid its responsibility to the people by showing that the great open spaces of the West have undue influence in the Senate. The truth of the matter is that the House goes into a stampede over what appears to be a popular measure as readily as does the Senate, as, for example, in voting on the bonus bill. If representatives of the States which pay the greater part of Federal taxes united on a program of resisting paternalism there is no power, save that of the people themselves, which could defeat their purpose.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., April 29.—Again the United States is entertaining royalty. The reigning King and Queen of Siam are making a tour of inspection and study. They are being welcomed with interest and hospitality, not only because of their rank and pleasing personalities, but because they represent our oldest treaty friends in the Far East.

On the map Siam looks small beside India and China, but it is larger than Spain. About eleven millions of peaceful agricultural people dwell there, under one of the last absolute monarchs in the world, and call themselves free. Our annual trade with them averages about three million dollars, but they buy of us many times what we buy of them. The government is so reliable and justice is so well administered that consular courts have been discontinued.

The benevolence of the reigning house makes it unnecessary to resort to force or agitation to secure reforms. When any revolution is desirable the king voluntarily provides it. He is now studying our franchise system with a view to introducing the ballot at home. An absolute monarch devoting his power to the liberal advancement of his people is a very appealing figure in the world.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

THE FRENCH PRESIDENT

From the Christian Science Monitor.

The election of a French President is always an important event in European affairs, but seldom has it meant more than will the selection of President Doumergue's successor, who will be appointed by the united votes of the Chamber and Senate sitting on May 13 in the Palace of Versailles. Although it is the fashion to lay stress on the irresponsibility and helplessness of the French President, as contrasted with the American President, such estimates are not altogether accurate, for if the French President is a strong man, he is advantageously placed to impose his views on ministers, Parliament and people.

It is true that all of the president's actions must be indorsed by the ministers, but the president, within the limits of parliamentary possibilities, is free to choose the prime minister and to suggest policy. As governments are notoriously short-lived in France, the president has plenty of opportunities for neglecting ministers who oppose him. Ministers come and go every few months, whereas the president remains for seven years.

It is, then, of considerable consequence what kind of president is now chosen in France. For France is unquestionably the pivot country of European politics; and a strong lead from France will have a decisive effect at this juncture. Next year the disarmament conference is to be held, and it is not without significance that the outgoing French President has expressed the view that France should be very cautious in reducing its armaments. If the incoming president reflects the same mood, difficulties may be expected. And one can not but notice that on the eve of the presidential elections there are fresh hesitations in France.

The rise of Hitlerism in Germany, the project for an Austro-German customs union, and a general apparent setback to the policy of Aristide Briand, have undoubtedly aroused uneasiness; and the present tendency is to react against Briandism. A few months ago M. Briand was the "favorite" for the presidency, and his election would have had a symbolic value. It would have been a declaration of French pacifism. Now, although M. Briand can not be ruled out, he is himself disinclined to stand.

FREE SPEECH.

The Detroit City Council has voted to permit the use of the city hall steps as a forum for free speech, says the Hartford Times. The theory is that if given the equivalent of Hyde Park in London, radicals are less harmful as haranguers than as self-styled martyrs. Broadly speaking, this is a sound view. Communists thrive much more on being taken seriously than if permitted to make their views fall by their own folly.

THE GREAT ROCK.

The great rock, gray and gaunt of form,
Undaunted braves the occasional storm,
And wears upon its shoulders strong
The drifted snow of all winter long.
But the small drops which never cease,
Like constant cares, disturb its peace.

Patient it stands; gales come and go
And leave no tell-tale scars to show,
But plain upon its face appears
The irritation of the years,
The fretting of the trifling care
Which it perforce is asked to bear.

"Look!" cries the passer-by, "the stain
Of those persistent drops is plain!
See where they come from. Note where they
Have worn this granite rock away,
And left upon its rugged face
So deep and visible a trace!

"Of all the tempests that have been
In days gone by no sign is seen.
Against the centuries it has stood,
Resisting wind and ice and flood,
But that persistent drop of care
Is more than even stone can bear!"

Only the Lieutenant Is Furious When an Inferior Forgets to Salute.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

MUCH of the suffering endured by "sensitive" people is home-made misery.

It is a disorder originating in vanity and complicated by malice.

Do you know why the "sensitive" person so frequently feels slighted—why he thinks so many people disrespectful—why his associates seem thoughtless?

It is because he feels important. He thinks himself entitled to more attention and consideration than he receives. He expects more than a careless world commonly gives.

Others are shown no more courtesy than he, and yet feel no resentment. They escape disappointment by the simple expedient of expecting little. They don't feel slighted or offended while they wait for the second table because it never occurs to them that they deserve anything better.

The "sensitive" one thinks his feelings are hurt, but the only wound is in his vanity. He is easily hurt because he thinks a man of his importance deserves a great deal of attention.

Being hurt, and yet unwilling to explain the cause of it lest he seem an ass, he suffers in helpless silence and prods his wounds with self-pity until they fester with malice.

It is the malice that makes him miserable. The grudge he bears gnaws at his vitals like the Spartan's fox. All beauty and gladness have gone out of his world. The flavor of life is gall and wormwood. The resentment he nurses poisons his mind and his body.

He suffers justly for his sins, but he need not suffer long.

The moment he purges himself of his silly vanity and in decent humility finds the grace to forgive, that moment he will be rid of bitterness and life again will be joyous.

Humility is a decent thing. It isn't the servile cringing of the spineless, but a wise man's realization of his little importance in a vast universe. It is the peculiar virtue of the great-hearted.

It is an armor against the hurts that afflict the vain, and its protection develops the forgiving spirit that cleanses the heart of bitterness.

Atlanta Constitution.

Democratic leaders, who are giving voice to the known sentiments of the party rank and file, are beginning to strike the high notes of reform policies that must distinguish the Democracy in the oncoming national campaign.

That there are controversial subjects that occasion cross-firings in both the major parties is evident enough, but in both those mooted issues will be subsidiary to the main line of party contest and electoral appeal.

The economic evils that the people are suffering loom above every other subject and policies of legislation and administration to alleviate them will be the chief demand upon the parties next year. Those evils are so largely the effects of Republican incompetency, subjection to special interests and bewildered, bungling administration of the Government, that the great body of the voters are manifestly looking to the Democratic party to once more pull the Nation out of misery with just, impartial and statesmanlike proposals and pledges.

Politicians, according to an elaborate analysis of politics by E. G. Pinkham, no longer tremble before the woman vote, having discovered that women in ten years have in no wise changed politics. Mr. Pinkham refers to the defeat of Ruth Hanna McCormick as proving that there is nothing to be feared from the woman vote. The game of politics goes on as before the nineteenth amendment.

Mrs. McCormick's defeat, however, signifies nothing in relation to woman suffrage. This rich, experienced and able woman, in spite of her supposed knowledge of politics, went down to defeat in a Republican State because of political blundering. The impression created by her campaign for the Senate in Illinois was that she was too much of a political trimmer. She was defeated, just as a man would have been under the same circumstances.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Government Should Realize Revenue From Liquor, as Immense Quantities Are Consumed in Spite of Prohibition.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I refer to your editorial of April commenting upon the governor's ve in Illinois of the Senate bill for r peal for State prohibition enforc ment. You are directly insulting t intelligence of not only the voters Illinois, but of most of the America Nation, by your statement that their referendum the people of Il nois were not voting for repeal b merely thought they were votin "wet." Just what do you mean b voting wet? The most effective v vote of this land is cast by tho voters whose dry proclivities ma possible the thousands of bootlegge and attendant corruption.

The official records of the Intern Revenue Bureau show that wine co sumption in the United States fro 1925 to 1930, inclusive, was 678,320 030 gallons, every drop of which co tained not less than 12 per cent alcohol. Add to this the figures whisky and beer consumption an you are staggered. But every dry o ganization in this country will t you that after many years of researc covering every city and hamlet in th United States, they find that ec nomic salvation lies in no whisky, beer, no anything containing alcoh and that the halo is three-quarte completed. The governmental figur regarding alcoholic consumption a indisputable, and it would, of cours be well-nigh impossible as well unethical to call any dry organizatio a liar, so we must accept the data both as correct. Therefore, if much alcohol is being consumed, quietly and unostentatiously that th best Sherlocks of the late gre Wheeler can hardly detect its pre ence in any man, wouldn't it possibl be of advantage to our Governmen to realize a monetary benefit fro this orderly quenching of the Ameri can thirst?

If the collective inventive genius your editorial staff can answer thi one, please do so, as your solutio would undoubtedly be of world-wid interest. FRED J. HAAS.

The Child's Bill of Rights as Affected by Prohibition.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir President Hoover, who has proclaim ed May 1 "Child Health Day," says The ideal to which we should striv is that there shall be no child i America—

That has not been born unde proper conditions.

That does not live in hygienic sur roundings.

That ever suffers from under nourishment.

That does not have prompt an efficient medical attention and in spection.

That does not receive primary in struction in the elements of hygien and good health.

That does not have the complet birthright of a sound mind in sound body.

That has not the encouragement t express in fullest measure the spiri within which is the final endowmen of every human being.

The liquor traffic is inimical to thi ideal in its entirety. A survey of th alcoholic liquor traffic and the en forcement of the eighteenth amend ment by a committee of Congress cite many benefits of prohibition, amon them those having a direct bear ing on child welfare, increased hom building, demand for more and bet ter furniture and other necessitie and comforts, fewer charity cases, in proved health of the Nation.

Collier's Weekly a few years ag noted that "The New York Children Court reports an average per year o 3,000 fewer delinquent and neglecte kids, 1922-24 than during the te years 1912-21. Chicago had 5,23 such cases in 1919, and 3,380 in 1923 Massachusetts reports an average de crease during the five years 1920-2 of 30 per cent in criminally toug kids."

New York was reaping great socia and economic benefits from prohi bition until repeal of the State en forcement law let loose a flood o liquor lawlessness. Today the Stat is reaping the effects of repeal. I you are for child welfare—or for pub lic welfare—vow never to vote for a nullificationist. What Alternative Is Open When Governments Fail to Protect Foreigners?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If we could separate the politica management from the economic re sult it has on legitimate business i any country that is not able to keep order, and pay its honest debts, then I could heartily agree and easily understand that no country should interfere in the political affairs of any other country—but this can not be done.

When the ruling class of any country lacks political poise, there always hangs over industry threats of extinction—not over native indus try only, but over industries in which foreign nationals have legitimate in terests. The time comes when the governments of these countries whose nationals suffer by political mismanagement press for adjustments. What shall we then do about it?

BRIDGE ENTRIES END WITH FILINGS TODAY

Post's Contest to Receive Applications of Players Up to Midnight.

Today, bridge fans, is April 30, the last day upon which to file your application for entry in the first annual bridge tournament of Washington players sponsored by The Washington Post.

Applications bearing post marks before midnight tonight will be listed in the several matches in accordance with the wishes of the entrants as to whether they desire to play contract or auction and in the classifications indicated. It is going to be a grand party, a big social event, as well as a contest of skill at the most popular and fascinating of all indoor games. It will be yours to regret if you fail to become a participant.

The flock of beautiful trophies—there is really a flock of them—offered by The Washington Post as prizes in the various matches and in both forms of the game will be on exhibition at the jewelry establishment of R. Harris & Co., Eleventh and F streets, next week. Amid all the dazzling finery of the store these handsome cups stand out conspicuously. They are worthy of the best skill of bridge experts. Next week they will be engraved and will be available for the inspection of prospective winners.

Small Trophies Provided.

In addition to the handsome cups which constitute team trophies, each individual member of a winning team will receive a small silver and gold lined replica of the big prize.

The major trophies, eight in number, will be awarded to the top-score team in the advanced class at contract, to the top-score team in the intermediate class in contract, to the top-score team in the advanced auction class, to the top-score team in the intermediate auction class, to the top-score pair in advanced contract, to the top-score pair in intermediate contract, to the top-score pair in advanced auction and to the top-score pair in intermediate auction.

As will be the case with the individual members of winning teams, individual members of pairs will also receive small replicas of the Capital trophies.

Names Will Be Engraved.

When the winners are known, R. Harris & Co. have stated, it will be glad to have the successful players return both the major trophies and the individual replicas to the store, where their names will be engraved upon them. Thus embellished, these prizes will, indeed, be a happy reminder of the most elaborate bridge event ever undertaken in Washington.

Remember that when once you are entered in the tournament you have made an engagement which it is highly essential that you should keep. Failure to report at the scheduled time may not only impair your chance of winning a trophy, but will work a hardship upon three teammates.

The dates are May 14, 15 and 16. Thursday afternoon and Friday afternoon at 2 p. m. occur the contract and auction pair matches, in both classes.

Thursday evening at 8 p. m. and Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. occur the auction team matches in both classes, and Friday evening and Saturday evening at 8 p. m. the contract team matches in both classes will be played.

The place is the New Shoreham.

Establishment of the new diocese means that now there is at least one in every State in the Union.

POLLARD TO PRESIDE AT GROUND BREAKING

Lee Highway Ceremony Will Be at Fort Buffalo Tomorrow.

Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia, who will preside at groundbreaking ceremonies for the Lee Memorial Boulevard tomorrow, and make the principal address, will use a gavel which is of great historic interest. It is of wood, from the home of a prehistoric cliff dweller. Upon a copper band is the inscription: "From a prehistoric cliff dwelling near Roosevelt Dam, Arizona. First used, Lee Highway Convention, Lawton, Oklahoma, July 21, 22, 1922."

The gavel was used also at the dedication of the Zero Milestone, June 4, 1923, by President Harding. Following these exercises the gavel was presented to Dr. S. M. Johnston, then general director of the association and now president of the National Boulevard Association. Dr. Johnson later presented the gavel to Traffic Director Eldridge, who is loaning it for tomorrow.

Tomorrow's exercises will have a place in the history of Greater Washington, in the belief of Dr. Johnson, marking official beginning on what is to become the most magnificent entrance into any capital of the world.

The committee yesterday was notified from the White House that President Hoover would be unable to attend the ceremonies, where he had been expected to turn the first spadeful of earth. The remainder of the program, with music by the Army Band and addresses by Gov. Pollard and Mr. Will C. Carson, will proceed as planned, according to George V. Graham, chairman of program. Amplifiers have been installed at the grounds at Fort Buffalo, where the exercises will take place at 2:30 o'clock.

Siamese Royal Pair Guests at Formal Dinner

Affair Is One of Most Brilliant in Years at White House.

THE dinner which the President and Mrs. Hoover gave last night for the King and Queen of Siam was one of the most brilliant functions in many years at the White House, the strange luster that surrounds a king of the Far East lending sparkle to the event of state. Fifty-six guests were present, the comparatively small group including members of the king's suite, the Vice President of the United States, ranking officials of the Government departments as well as members of the Cabinet and their wives, ranking members of Congress, several Army and Navy officers and a few officers of the Department of State.

The President and Mrs. Hoover received King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambai in the red room at 8 o'clock. Before arrival of the royal guests at the White House members of the king's suite preceded them to the mansion, joining the American guests in the east room. In the red room where the President and Mrs. Hoover had awaited the coming of the royal couple a brief exchange of courtesies took place, after which the President, with Siam's King, and Mrs. Hoover, with Queen Rambai, entered the east room, where their majesties were presented by aids to the other guests.

The President took the queen in to dinner, the king escorting Mrs. Hoover. President Hoover, with the king at his right and the queen at his left, was seated in one of the tall, high-backed chairs placed last night at the center of the table for the President and First Lady and the royal guests. Beside the king was Mrs. Hoover, who had at her right Prince Svasti, father of the young queen. At the left of Queen Rambai was Vice President Curtis, with Princess Svasti as his dinner companion.

Like a garden of pink and white blossoms, the long rectangular table was unusually lovely. Centering the table, the dimensions of which were 20 feet by 40, was the Dolly Madison service of gold, mirroring a large bowl of pink and white snapdragons, red tulips, spirea and white lilacs. The long golden plaque was edged with tiny bouquets of white lilacs and snapdragons. Tall vases of the spring flowers were at either end, with four low bowls of the delicate pink and white flowers interspersed. One large epergne of purple grapes added the touch of the Far West favored by Mrs. Hoover in her table decorations.

With the Vice President heading the list of guests asked to meet the king and queen, the others present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Gann, their royal highnesses, Prince and Princess Svasti, the Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes, the Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson, the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon; Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, the Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell, the Postmaster General, Mr. Walter F. Brown; the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams, the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Hyde, the Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Doak, General His Excellency Chao-Phya Bijayandra, Mon-Chao Vipulya Svastikula, Rear Admiral Mom-Chao and Mme. Thavara Chayant, Phra Noraraj, Maj. Mom-Chao Prasobsri Chirapravati.

Senator and Mrs. George H. Moses, Senator and Mrs. William E. Borah, Senator and Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, Representative and Mrs. Henry W. Temple, Representative and Mrs. J. Charles Linthicum, Undersecretary of State and Mrs. William R. Castle, jr., Mrs. Henry P. Fletcher, Rear Admiral Henry V. Butler, Maj. Gen. Albert J. Bowley, Mr. David E. Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Southgate, Mr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond B. Stevens, Lieut. Col. Charles H. Patterson, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, jr., Capt. and Mrs. Charles Russell Train and Col. Campbell B. Hodges.

Last night's function gave, for the first time, official recognition to Mrs. Gann as second ranking lady of the Nation. Whether last night's status is an arrangement permanent or temporary was not revealed by the Department of State. Time—and a few state functions—probably will determine the question.

A program of delightful harp numbers was heard in the east room following the dinner. The artist, Mildred Dilling, is a young harpist from out of the West, coming from Indiana, although well known in metropolitan music circles. About 100 additional guests were invited for the concert, the group representing strictly official circles.

The east room was effectively decorated with tall vases of purple lilacs and pink carnations, the flowers forming an especially happy choice for the famous Sevres bases of blue, the gift of a former President of France. Low ferns banked the platform where stood the grand piano. In the green room were bowls of bridal wreath and pink carnations; a profusion of white roses and bridal wreath decked the oval end of the blue room, and on the mantel were exquisite bouquets of white roses, ferns and ageratum. Pink roses were used in the red room.

The entire group of White House aids was on duty in full uniform.

INTERPRETS the MODE

This smart tailleur is of red and white plaid wool, with beige transparent wool blouse and beige flower. (Courtesy of Tollmann, Paris).

New York, April 29.

THERE never was a season as this one for vivid colors and patterns and color combinations and gay materials. You've only to notice how stripes are coming back into popularity to know that, because certainly there's nothing gayer than stripes particularly the kind of stripes being used now—the inch-wide variety. But before you go in for them you'd better remember all the sound advice I've given and you've heard since childhood about stripes. Stripes around for the slim ones and up and down for those who want to look slim. Remember? And to make things even more complicated those aren't the only two directions in which stripes are being used. Stripes used diagonally slanting from the center of the skirt either upward or downward toward the sides are very smart and awfully slenderizing.

Some striped morning dresses use the stripes running in several directions in the one dress—up and down in the skirt and diagonally in the waist. All kinds of odd and chic effects can be gotten by varying the direction of the stripes in one frock. Of course, the materials are mostly always the summery silks, tussor, shantung or tie silk, though there are several materials of the very light and transparent type of wools that have their stripe woven right into them. And I must tell you that the stripes on these new materials aren't always of the same width—even on the same piece of material! There is one lovely pattern with the stripes varying on it from one-eighth of an inch to an inch in width. The frock I saw in this variety had pale blue stripes on a white background. I really fell in love with a red and white striped dress which had the stripes used spirally all around—if you get what I mean. It seemed to me that it would make anybody look as cool and delicious as an old-fashioned peppermint candy, no less!

• • • •

A tailleur, severely chic in cut and with a widely pleated skirt was fashioned by Tollmann of large red-and-white checks. Look—I illustrated it for you today, for it's so swagger and youthful a suit, with its vivid coloring contradicting its conservative line. By way of tying both ideas together, perhaps, Tollmann uses with this suit a beige blouse of transparent wool, and a beige flower to dispel the masculinity of the lapel.

• • • •

Three perky little hats are these I show you today! The jaunty little tan is of the shiniest black straw; Lavin fashioned the middle one of white raffia, loosely woven, and with a braided brim of thin white wicker—so easy to keep clean, my dears—and Patou again shows a distinct fondness for the square crown in the third.

• • • •

It isn't gobble-uns that will get you if you don't watch out nowadays, it's pyjamas! And once they get you, you stay gotten, if you see what I mean. It's no wonder, when you think it over, for pyjamas are smart looking, comfortable and practical, which is more than you can say of any other type of lounging garment, now, isn't it? It seems to me that the only objection to pyjamas is a financial one, and that's a fancied grievance these days. Yes, honestly, you can make a street suit, and for just a tiny bit extra buy enough material to make pyjama trousers—and have day and lounging clothes for ever so little. It's easy, too. Just easy, too. Just send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's leaflet, and find out!

• • • •

Of course, you want to read about new spring ensembles. They're discussed in Dare's weekly fashion letter in Sunday's Washington Post.

Au Revoir.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"TAURUS."

IF April 30th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 3:15 p. m. to 5:15 p. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 10:45 p. m. The danger hours are from 9 a. m. to 10:15 a. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:45 p. m.

April 30th, according to its astrological aspects, denotes a day full of worth-while effort, in which much will be accomplished that will produce future results. It will also provide some startling changes, both in domestic and business life. A good day for marriage.

Children born on this April 30th will only be successful if allowed to give latitude to their natural originality. In no way will they be imitative, and any effort to force them along certain lines must only end in disaster. They will be popular, and demonstratively affectionate.

Born on April 30th, you are temperamental, and subject to moods. These please you, but they annoy your friends, and, unless the changing degrees of heat and cold in your "make up" become less frequent, you will be avoided rather than courted. You are not sufficiently considerate of the feelings of others to ever become a "wow." Your temperamentality is in itself based on selfishness.

You need more self-control, more introspection. Envy often makes you sore with your lot. Just try twisting your viewpoint around. Cease thinking of those better circumstanced, and reflect on those not so well circumstanced. This will prove to be a first-rate tonic. You possess determination and force of character, and, but for unjustified fits of the blues, you could achieve much that would be worth while. You too, are very sensitive, and should cultivate a more pachydermatous hide. It is not what people say or think that should count. The only safe criterion is the satisfaction of your own conscience—and you possess a very acute one. Your ideals are high, and you must not allow these to be destroyed by outside influences. Be patient! If mated with one born in June or October your marital outlook is a rosy one.

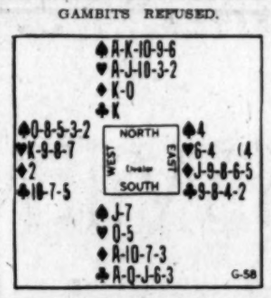
WORK ON BRIDGE

GAMBITS REFUSED.



THE above Contract hand was played in a pair match in Boston. South bid on Club, West passed, North bid two Spades (a forcing jump-shift), and East passed. On the second round, South called three Clubs; it was safer than two No Trumps in view of the short Hearts, and furthermore it showed a minimum of five Clubs. West passed and North bid three Hearts. It was safe for North to bid for less than game as his forcing jump-shift on the first round had asked South to keep the bidding open until game was reached. East passed; and South, with worth-while doubletons in both of North's suits and material strength in the other suits, felt it important to show the character of his hand by bidding four No Trumps. The only difficulty with this bid was that it might cause North to underestimate South's ability to play at Hearts. West passed; and North, placing implicit confidence in South's bid, called six No Trumps.

The play was very interesting. West, with Spades, Hearts and Clubs all adversely bid, led his singleton Deuce of Diamonds (an unusual opening lead against a No Trump contract). Dummy won with the Queen and then led the King of Clubs so as to establish South's Club suit; next he led the Ten of Spades expecting the adverse Queen to win and thus leave a Spade entry in the South hand. However, West refused the proffered gambit, appreciating what was going on and feeling that his best defense would be to pass. At trick 3 Declarer tried again to give away a trick by leading the Jack of Hearts from dummy; but again West declined to accept.

Then Declarer determined to run; he led the King of Diamonds, overtaking it with South's Ace and followed that play by cashing South's four Club tricks, discarding three Hearts and a Spade from the dummy. The small slam was now assured. The Jack of Spades was led to trick 10 and West did not cover. A finesse would have given Declarer the thirteen tricks, but it could not be risked as East had a good Diamond. Therefore the Spade was covered, and West took the thirteenth trick with the Queen of Spades. Declarer making his small slam.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me whether hollyhocks like sun and rich soil or sun and a sandy soil. When should established plants be transplanted? MRS. CARL R.

Hollyhocks, as a rule, demand some water in the drier sections of the country, although in a season when showers are frequent they will do very well with practically no extra watering. They like a deep, well-fertilized soil, and while sun-loving plants will grow in partial shade. Propagation is usually by seeds, which should be sown as soon as ripe, especially if the plants are to be treated as biennials. In the home garden there is a tendency for hollyhocks to revert to single pink varieties if there are any of the single varieties near from which the bees can carry pollen and thus cross with the others. These plants should be transplanted most carefully. It is best done in the spring, as the roots are large and growth is from a few strong buds in the crown which must be well protected lest the whole plant be lost. Always set them with the strong main roots pointing down and the crown a little below the surface.

Do Sweet Williams demand sun and a rich soil? MABEL B. T.

Yes.

Do you advise an amateur with absolutely no garden experience who has only $40 to spend on her first adventure to grow annuals from seed and purchase perennials in root form rather than to attempt to grow them from seed or by taking off cuttings from the plants of her friends?

A FIRST GARDENER.

The best advice I can offer you is to buy a good garden book. If you want to write again I will tell you of a book that has been written by one of the teachers in an agricultural college that is well indexed and exceedingly clear. Then you should spend a percentage of the $40 for fertilizer. It pays to make a good beginning. Annuals can be grown from seed. Study the catalogs and get varieties like petunias, sweet alyssum or verbenas that practically always do well. I think it is best for the beginner to purchase plants of hardy perennials from a grower or nursery making a specialty of them. After some experience in growing them you can do your own propagating. Keep in mind that I enjoy helping first adventurers in gardening.

Please tell me where I can purchase the "Christmas Rose," also Star of Bethlehem. ANNE T. B.

I am sorry, but I do not know of any firm listing Star of Bethlehem. I know of one firm which has a few plants, but they are not for sale. If you care to write again I will send you the name and address of a firm listing the Christmas rose.

Please give me some advice about pruning my rambler roses. Is this the proper time to set out started pansy plants? Mrs. JASPER T. W.

The small-flowered ramblers produce good blooms only on new shoots from canes which were produced last year. So stems which are two years old are past their season of greatest usefulness and should be removed. The best time to prune them is immediately after they have finished flowering. All the canes which bear withered flowers should be cut out at the base of the plant or to some point where a strong cane starts out from them. You may set out pansies at this time.

YOUR NAME WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE family name "Madden" (also spelled "Maddin") is of Celtic origin. It has come down to us as the modern form of various old Irish names, especially "O Madain" and "O Madaidhin," which mean "the descendant of the little dog." Two of the many distinguished bearers of this name were Sir Frederick Madden (1801-1873) and Sir George Allan Madden (1771-1828). The former was a noted English antiquary and paleographer. The latter obtained great fame as a British general.

The family name "Madigan" (also spelled "Maddigan") is merely a variation of "Madden." It is therefore of Celtic origin, and means "the descendant of the little dog."

Although the family name "Knox" is common throughout Great Brittain, it is ultimately of Celtic origin. It means "the hill," and indicates an original place of residence. Many families which bear this name have received it because of a former residence on the lands of Knocks or Knox, County Renfrew, Scotland. As one might suppose, the place-name and the family name have the same origin and meaning. As a family name "Knox" appears to be first recorded in the beginning of the thirteenth century.

The family name "MacLeod" (also written "MacCleod" and "MacCloud") is of combined Celtic and Scandinavian origin. It means "the son of Ljotr." "Ljotr" is an old Scandinavian personal name meaning "ugly." "MacLeod" is the name of a well-known and once powerful Scottish clan. Some members of that clan settled in Ireland in the sixteenth century.

United Jewish Campaign Progress Is Reported

Steady progress is being made by united Jewish campaign workers in their effort to raise $60,000 for relief of eastern European Jewry and Palestine rehabilitation. A campaign luncheon will be held today at the Jewish Community Center. Among the larger contributions announced yesterday were: The Washington Post, $250; Washington Times Co., $250; Isidore Kahn, $75; Mark Goldman, $100; Dr. Louis Cohen, $50, and $25 each from Benjamin Dobkin, Dr. Elias Yanefsky and Louis A. Pinck. Funds raised are to be divided equally between relief work and Zionist endeavor. National campaigns for both causes are endeavoring to raise $5,000,000 in the United States this year.

$971,000,000 Given To Veterans as Loans

(Associated Press.)

The Veterans' Bureau at the end of last week had loaned $971,000,000 on adjusted compensation certificates and had virtually disposed of the rush of applications from borrowers.

Veterans' Administrator Hines reported to President Hoover yesterday that the work of administering the law allowing veterans to borrow up to 50 per cent of the face value of their certificates had been almost completed in about one-third the time first thought necessary. The bureau has on hand 168,000 applications for loans, which will require only about a week to dispose of.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ANNOUNCEMENT is made from the offices of the RKO-Keith Theater that beginning tomorrow, May 1, and effective continuously thereafter, the admission charge for children will be fixed at the flat rate of 15 cents at all performances.

As another step in fulfillment of its avowed policy of "Service to Patrons," RKO-Keith's heralds the establishment of a children's playground in the spacious basement lounge of the theater. Sand piles, slides, swings, toys and other delights of childhood have been installed—with competent attendants in charge—so that while their elders enjoy the entertainment on the upper floor, the kiddies may divert themselves with comparable pleasure in this part of the house especially set aside for their amusement.

This arrangement should go far toward solving the problem of the housewife who heretofore has not been able to leave "junior" at home or to find any other place where he might be safely parked.

Of course, you might have to spill a little sand out of his shoes after the show, but gee whiz!

When Frank Borzage directed "Doctors' Wives," current at the Fox, he evidently didn't have quite the courage to stop his play short of a happy ending.

After the beautiful young wife of the noted surgeon has proved herself to be scarcely more than a jealous little cat, and is serving as an undergraduate nurse in the hospital where her husband is operating upon the man who had not precisely promoted his domestic tranquillity, an interne speaking of Dr. Jude Penning, asks her, "Do you know him?" Her reply, as I recall it, is, "I could have, once."

What a honey of an ending it would have made to stop the picture right there!

Word comes to this desk that on Saturday a special chidren's matinee of the District of Columbia Girl Scouts' production of the "Festival of Nations" will be given in Constitution Hall, where crowds are being attracted by one of the most elaborate combinations of music, dancing, drama and pageantry the Capital has seen in years.

Among the musical attractions featured in this colorful offering are the George Washington University Glee Club, conducted by Dr. Robert H. Harmon; Kurt Hetzel's piano and organ quintet and Sophocles Papas and his Mexican Stage Band.

There are more vocalists in the production than one conductor can shake a stick at!

Old-time stories on the screen this year seem to be the ones that may be relied upon to return the greatest grosses at the box offices. It was not so long ago that "East Lynne," battered and buffeted by repertoire and stock companies up and down the land for lo, these many years, knocked the gentry for a series of dizzying loops at the Fox. Now at the Metropolitan, that old war horse among melodramas, "Ten Nights in a Barroom," is packing them in in a manner the Warner F street house hasn't witnessed since Tenth street was 'way up town.

Next week's list, by the way, would look something like this in print: Earle, George Arliss in "The Millionaire," and vaudeville bill headed by Charlie Melson; Fox, Loretta Young and John Wayne in "Three Girls Lost," and Fanchon & Marco stage revue; Palace, Wallace Beery, in "The Secret Six," and Borrah Minnevich in "Manhattan Serenade" revue; Rialto, Lewis Ayres and Jean Harlow in "Iron Man;" RKO-Keith's, Constance Bennett in "Born to Love;" Columbia, Harry Carey and Edwina Booth in "Trader Horn."

Incidentally, Universal's much discussed production of the Norris novel, "Seed," will be the attraction at the Rialto the week of May 16, with John Boles, recently here in person; Lois Wilson and Genevieve Tobin in the featured roles.

Look out for ice, snow and blizzards on or about May 8. Leonard B. Schloss, entering his twenty-first year as major-domo of the al fresco amusement park, announces that Glen Echo will open on May 9!

And what has happened to the usual spring crop of rumors about new temples of the cinema going up on F street?

Lynchburg, Va., April 29.—Fire of undetermined origin, starting in a sign writer's quarters on the third floor, did damage easily today to a building at 909-911 Main street, estimated at $2,500.

The Style Shop and Whitmore's electrical establishment had heavy water damage, but no fire.

The Army recruiting station, second floor, was damaged by water. Gordon Hall, operator of the sign business, lost about $500 on which there was no insurance.

CAKES AND PIES HAVE IMPORTANT DIET VALUE

Their Flavorful Goodness Makes a Meal Complete

America has made its pastry popular the world over. And of all desserts, few can be made in more pleasing variety than pies and cakes.

Every normal person should have pastry frequently, because it helps balance the diet. A piece of fruit pie, or a slice of light-textured cake, is an ideal ending to a meal composed of meat, and vegetables, both leafy and starchy.

If you don't make your own pies and cakes, the ingredients and manufacturing methods employed by modern bakers, great and small, insure the highest quality in these popular American desserts. Their freshness can be depended upon and their price is within reach of all.

A nationally known nutritional authority recommends a generous vegetable salad followed by a piece of pie, cake or any similar dessert for those dieting, in order to reduce weight. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-covered tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

ENCYCLICAL LETTER OF

His Holiness Pope Pius XI

CHRISTIAN MARRIAGE

The classic pronouncement by the greatest authority on a subject in which all the world is interested, in view of present conditions, needs, errors and vices that affect the family and society.

The Latin and English version will be quarto size, with a title-page, showing the arms of His Holiness in red. The paper is a wove, smooth-surfaced paper of a slightly creamy tone, showing the type to the best advantage. The type is modeled on that employed by Bodoni, the celebrated printer of Parma, who was given a medal by Pius VI for his magnificent printing. The notes are at the end of the volume.

Of this edition, one copy will be bound specially for His Holiness.

19 copies, for special presentation, in deep red Levant Morocco, with oak-board covers.

80 copies for book collectors, in deep red full Levant Morocco.

400 copies for distribution by His Holiness, in deep red half Levant Morocco, with marbled cloth sides.

500 copies, bound in the same elegant manner, for general sale.

2.—POPULAR EDITION—containing the English version only:

This edition will be of 16 mo. size, printed on a delicate, cream-tinted rag paper.

10,000 copies of this edition will be bound in cloth with the Papal Arms in gold, at 50c a copy.

15,000 copies will be bound in boards with white cloth back and colored paper sides, at $1.00 a copy.

This small edition contains the English version only, with the notes. It will, by its tasteful appearance, its good workmanship, and moderate price, appeal to those who desire the letter in a durable, elegant, but inexpensive form.

These handsome editions of the Encyclical have been made without regard to cost, not for profit nor as a commercial enterprise, but solely to give to the world this precious document in a form worthy of it, and to make possible for every right-thinking man and woman to possess a copy of this invaluable document at far less than its cost.

The Title-page of both these editions bears the imprint of the Barryvail Corporation, the book being issued through the generosity of a well-known Catholic layman.

The editorial work was done by the Rev. John J. Wynne, S. J., of The Catholic Encyclopedia. The Latin text bears the Concordat cum originali of His Eminence Patrick Cardinal Hayes.

The printing was intrusted to Mr. D. B. Updyke of The Merrymount Press, Boston, Mass., well-known to lovers of fine printing.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

THE SPLEEN AND ITS JOB.

THE spleen is a blood gland. Its structure and its relation to the blood vessels show it to have about the same relation to the blood that a lymph gland has to the lymph vessels and the lymph. The latter fluid is derived from the blood. It flows among the body cells, nourishing them and washing waste from them. This work finished, it flows into lymph channels and then into lymph glands, through which it filters. This cleansing having been finished, the lymph flows into the blood stream and is again distributed to the tissues. The bacteria or poisons filtered out by the lymph glands may cause them to swell, become inflamed, and sometimes to form abscesses.

The blood, after circulating in the capillaries, is gathered up by veins. Eventually it finds its way to the great filter called the spleen. In this organ the blood flows from small vessels into wide lakes. In these lakes the current is sluggish. The islands of spleen cells in this lake have an opportunity to purify the blood.

This column has carried thousands of words by way of advice to people not to buy and take blood purifiers. One reason for this advice is that in the spleen every man has a better purifier than was ever sold in a bottle. While it is but one of a battery of blood purifiers, the kidneys and liver being in the same class, so far as certain kinds of purifying goes the spleen is the best of the lot, by far.

It is one of the ductless glands in the sense that it works directly on the blood and needs no pipes. And it is much the largest of those ductless glands that have no other work to do. The liver is larger but it has bile to secrete. Proper comparisons are between the spleen, and the thyroid, the pituitary, the adrenals and the parathyroids. It is far larger than any of these. It is located on the left side of the body in the upper abdomen in a position corresponding to that of the liver. It lies just below the diaphragm and just above the kidney, and we recall that the same or corresponding organs bound the liver.

Because it is much smaller than the liver and is tucked well up under the ribs it can not be located by the touch or by sensation so long as it remains normal in size and location.

We think of it as a blood filter, and such it is, but doubtless there are many aspects of its work and details about its activity about which we do not know. It is not easy to take the clock to pieces and then build it back when the machine under study is the blood stream and those glands that act directly on it and nothing else.

CHANCE SHOULD BE GOOD.

W. A. D. writes:

1. What chance has a man 37 years old with spots on both lungs?

2. Is it best to be in bed all the time?

3. Is exercise needed?

REPLY.

1. His chance should be good provided the disease is in an early stage and treatment will be followed. "A spot on the lung" is indefinite.

2. Depends on fever.

3. Depends on fever, cough and strength.

M'CALLUM MEDALIST; NATS DEFEAT YANKEES, 9-5

Star of Host Club Shoots 4 Birdies in Leading Field; Match Play Opens Today

Dr. Webb Is Second With 75; Roesch Withdraws.

Pitt, Cox Gain Places in Title Flight in Late Play-Off.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

WALTER R. M'CALLUM, of the host club, with a fine card of 35—38—73, yesterday won the medal for low gross in the qualifying round of the annual spring tournament of the Washington Golf and Country Club. His nearest competitor was Dr. Thomas D. Webb, who scored 38—37—75. Cards of 81 landed in the first sixteen and players with 91, with the exception of a quartet who lost out in the draw, qualified in the fifth and final sixteen. On the whole, these were exceptionally high scores.

McCallum started his round with a 6-foot putt for a birdie on the first hole and then captured another birdie on the fifth, with an 8-foot putt. He was one over par on the seventh, when he made a weak chip shot, but with all of the other holes in par, except the short second when he managed to run down a long putt for a 4 after two out-of-trap shots, he was out in even par figures. On the homeward journey he took 5 on the par 3 eleventh, encountering a trap, and he took three putts for a 5 on the par 4 twelfth. A single long putt gave him a birdie 4 on the fifteenth, followed by a birdie 3 on the sixteenth. Three from off the green on the seventeenth and three putts on the eighteenth cost him 5s for the two holes.

Webb Threatens Leader.

McCallum's supremacy was threatened by Dr. Webb who, although he took 38 strokes for the outward nine came back in 37. He had two disastrous holes, the fourth, when adventures into the woods led to a 6, and the fifteenth, where a hooked tee shot followed by a collision with a tree compelled him to add another 6 to his card. A stroke saved on each of these holes would have enabled him to tie with the leader.

Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, who qualified in the third sixteen, had visions of playing in the championship flight when he went out in 36 strokes, but a ball in the ditch at the fifteen, a ball out of bounds on the sixteenth and other misadventures brought him back in 47 for a total of 86.

Hunt and Coxwin Eliminated in Play-Off.

Owing to the lateness of the start-off of the last pair, it was nearly dark when eight players with cards of 81 were called upon to play-off for two places in the first sixteen. They were Monro Hunter, jr., Indian Spring; Herman J. Hall, Bannockburn; D. B. Emerton, unattached, and Maj. E. A. Noyes, Army-Navy, failed to respond when their names and were automatically placed in the second sixteen, leaving four to compete for the coveted positions. The winners were Harry G. Pitt, Manor, who was on the green in 2 and holed out in two putts, and W. J. Cox, Beaver Dam, who also made a par 4 after driving his first shot well out of bounds. W. C. Evans, Columbia, and Dr. J. B. Bullard, Country Club of Virginia, sliced from the first tee into the eighteenth fairway and finished with 5s, although fans might have figured if he had not taken three putts.

Frank K. Roesch, who holds both the District and Washington Club championships, was out in 36, but had a perilous voyage on his way home. On the twelfth hole a ball went out of bounds was followed by a third shot into a mass of mud from which it finally extricated his ball, but piled out in 8. On the thirteenth he approached far over the green down a hillside and finished with a 7, while on the seventeenth green, after taking three putts, he withdrew from the tournament.

The pairings and times of play this morning for the qualifiers are as follows:

Bridgewater Defeats Catawba Nine, 15-8

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., April 29.—Bridgewater turned the tables on Catawba this afternoon and walloped the North Carolina tossers, 15 to 8. The Tarheels took the first of the two-game series yesterday. The Eagles sewed up the contest with seven runs in the fourth when 11 men went to the plate. Holsinger, who went the route for Catawba, was kicked for 16 hits. Young Jim Brough, a southpaw twirling his first game for Bridgewater, managed to hold the visitors in check after the early innings.

Kirchen and Kessler hit home runs for Catawba. Capt. Shull and Will, of Bridgewater, each got three hits, while Jimmy Thompson clouted a triple and a double.

Elon Nine Again Beats Virginia Poly, 15 to 3

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., April 29.—Elon College nine made it two straight over V. P. I. here today, raking two Poly hurlers for 18 hits while the Gobbiers went to pieces in the field, to pound out a 15-to-3 victory. The Carolinians took kindly to every offering of the V. P. I. hurlers driving out many extra base wallops including two home runs and two doubles by Latham and a triple by Z. Harrington.

After playing steady ball in the early season games, V. P. I. fielders set a local record with a total of 11 miscues. Twenty of the visitors were left on bases. V. P. I. hit Mann, Elon hurler, for 13 bingles, including a home run, double and two singles by Anderson in five times at bat.

Garden Fight Is Lost by Goldstein

Capital Amateur Is Beaten by Philadelphia Italian.

Decision Is Reversed; Vote of Judges Is 2 to 1.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, April 29.—In as vividly slashing battle as has been produced in the three days of the tourney to date, Robert Goldstein, representing the University of Virginia, the last of the Washington, D. C., contingent, failed in his quest for a title when he went down to defeat before the superior staying power of Mike Grandinetta, of Philadelphia, by a decision in three rounds in the national amateur boxing championships tonight at Madison Square Garden.

Goldstein, former Washington, D. C., schoolboy, gave as thrilling an exhibition of battling against odds as has been witnessed here thus far. Grandinetta, a sturdy, powerful Italian, a bit shorter than Goldstein, but undoubtedly stronger, won by shooting hard body blows to his opponent's stomach, blows which carried with them as much sting and as much power as a man twice his weight.

Goldstein Weakens Under Drubbing.

The slim Washington boy, after a first-round exhibition which kept a capacity crowd in hysterics, weakened perceptibly under the continual drubbing at his stomach he was receiving until, by the time the finish came he was a badly tired and much damaged young man.

The bout was one continual exchange after another, with no let up for air. In the first round, which was all Goldstein's, the Washington boy kept piling up points with a jabbing left hand which jarred Grandinetta, but failed to turn him aside. Goldstein slugged the Philadelphia youngster all over the ring during that first round, but the powerful Italian came back for more.

It was this lasting quality in the Quakertown lad which proved the turning point. It broke Goldstein's heart, and in both the second and third rounds he was far from his first-round exhibition.

Grandinetta Bleeds In Second Round.

But even though the Washington boy could not outpoint his opponent in these last two rounds, he put up a game and stirring battle. Early in the second round Grandinetta started to bleed at the nose, and by the time the chapter was over, both men had blood smeared all over them.

Grandinetta seemed to be groggy in the second, but he refused to give way, despite Goldstein's continual jabbing. With the blood literally dripping from both of them, they pummeled each other unmercifully, with Goldstein growing more and more tired, while his opponent drew upon all his energy to keep fighting.

Again they engaged in a furious exchange in the third round, but both boys refused to stop, taking their punishment and coming back for more. By this time both were only semiconscious, but the Italian kept coming in and slugging, while Goldstein was doing his best to stave off his opponent's vicious hooks and crosses. The bell ending the third round found them still fighting in the center of the ring and it was only with great difficulty that the referee pried them apart.

Award First Given To Goldstein.

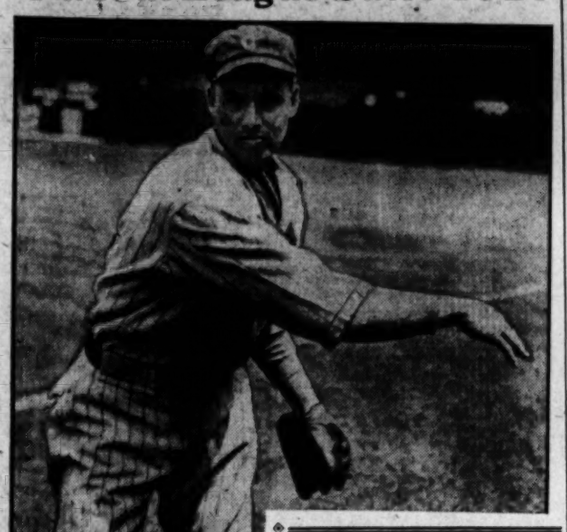
Even when it was announced that Goldstein was the winner there was little surprise, so close had the battle been, but the announcer discovered that he had made a mistake in reading the names, and the men were called back again to receive the second verdict, which was in favor of Grandinetta by a vote of 2 to 1.

Walker and McLean Take Handball Title

Ohanning Walker and Perry McLean triumphed over W. C. Woodworth and Leonard Vineberg to capture the doubles championship of the A. A. U. handball tournament on the Y. M. C. A. courts yesterday. Woodworth and Vineberg fought a game battle, but the superiority of the victors was evident at every turn of the struggle as the final scores, 21-11 and 21-8, indicate. J. B. Payne and Paul Pearlman finished third in the doubles competition.

The match concluded one of the most successful tournaments to be conducted in recent years in this city. Play was under the joint auspices of the A. A. U. and Y. M. C. A., with Prof. C. Edward Beckett personally directing.

Ferrell Hurls No-Hit Game, First in League Since 1926



Cleveland Ace Hits Homer, Fans Eight of Browns.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 29 (A.P.).—Wesley Ferrell, one of the leading right-handed pitchers in the American League, today crashed the gates to baseball's hall of fame by pitching his first no-hit, no-run game in the majors, as Cleveland subdued the St. Louis Browns in the series final, 9 to 0.

Besides pitching the first no-hit, no-run game in the majors in nearly two years, Ferrell poked a mighty home-run blow into the center-field bleachers, driving in another man in the fourth inning, and sent two runs across in the eighth with a double off the right-field wall. Earl Averill also contributed to the carnage by hitting his third homer of the season with one on base.

Ferrell was throwing them past the batters with amazing speed, eight Brownies striking out on his "fast and faster" balls. He allowed only three walks, while three others reached base on three errors by Bill Hunnefield. Not a runner went farther than first base, however.

Not a ball was hit beyond the infield, either in the air or on the ground. The Cleveland speed merchant won his fourth game of the season, and with the season hardly more than two weeks old, seems headed for a better record than last year, when he won 25 games and compiled a record as the most effective pitcher in the league. He has lost one game so far, whereas last year he lost 13.

Hubbel Hurled Last No-Hit Game.

The last previous performance to equal Ferrell's was Carl Hubbell's no-hit, no-run victory over Pittsburgh while pitching for the New York Giants on May 8, 1929. The last Cleveland hurler to duplicate the feat was Raymond Caldwell, who shut out the New York Yankees September 10, 1919. The last no-hit game in the American League was by Ted Lyons, of the Chicago White Sox, against Boston, August 21, 1926.

Haines Hurls Cardinals To 7-1 Win Over Bucs

St. Louis, Mo., April 29 (A.P.).—St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh today, 7-1, to break even with the Pirates in a four-game series and to remain, with Chicago, in a tie for first place in the National League.

Jesse Haines, hurling his second game this year for the Cardinals, was stingy in allowing hits and, after Pittsburgh had made its only score in the eighth, struck out Comorosky with the bases filled. St. Louis concentrated its hits sufficiently to make them productive. Ray Kremer lasted seven innings before the Cardinal batsmen Osborn going in for the eighth inning.

General's Frosh Beat Augusta Cadets, 6-2

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., April 29.—The masterful pitching of "Kippy" Sauerbrum, Washington and Lee Freshman southpaw, today gave the Little Generals a 6-2 victory over the Augusta Military Academy team here this afternoon.

Sauerbrum was active at the bat, driving in three runs with his two doubles and a single in four trips to the plate. Wilson got the only other extra base blow with his home run in the first inning, scoring Cuomo.

A. M. A. tallied in the first on Miller's error Whitehead's stolen base and Keller's sacrifice. The Little Generals tallied four runs in the first on Cuomo's hit, Wilson's homer, Sauerbrum's double, Cook's single, Aiken's single and Steinberg's sacrifice.

Augusta touched Sauerbrum for a hit in the fourth on Keller's single and subsequent errors by Wilson and Cuomo sent him home. No other Augusta batters hit safely until two were down in the ninth, when Keller got another base hit and Sutton hit safely.

Tigers Blanked, 3 to 0, By Thomas, of Chisox

Chicago, April 29 (A.P.).—Tommy Thomas, after being of practically no use to the White Sox for an entire year, returned to his old form this afternoon and blanked the Detroit Tigers, the White Sox winning 3 to 0. Thomas had perfect control and was nicked for only seven hits, several of them scratches.

As good as the Hose ace was, Earl Whitehill almost matched him, for the Detroit southpaw gave only five hits but the Sox put four of them together in the second and fourth frames for a pair of runs, and an error by Koenig let in another in the third.

Nats Invading Boston for 3 Games

Crowder to Hurl in Opener of Series at Hub Today.

West, Ankle Hurt, to Return; Arm Now Called Fit.

MANAGER Walter Johnson and his Nationals left for Boston last night, where they start a road trip which, with the exception of two Sunday games, will keep them away until they entertain the New York Yankees here in the usual holiday bill on May 30. Three games will be played in the City of Culture, providing the weather permits, with "General" Alvin Crowder drawing the Washington mound assignment in this afternoon's series opener.

On Sunday, the Nats make one of their one-day returns, meeting the Mackmen here and hustling away that night for New York for their first 1931 appearance the following day. Then the team hops to Detroit for its first swing through the West, which ends at Chicago on May 21.

A jump to New York follows, where one game will be played there on May 23. On Sunday, the following day, the Nats will entertain the Boston Red Sox here, the two teams then jumping to Boston for a series which ends the following Thursday. An off-day follows, with a long home stay opening on Decoration Day.

Go West Month Earlier.

Last year, the Nationals did not go West until June, a month later than they do this season, and Manager Johnson looks upon this early jaunt through the opposite sector as a "break."

"We'll get a line on ourselves and what we have to beat earlier than we did last year," he explained, "and it also will show us earlier whether or not we've overcome that jinx which Western stadiums seemed to have on us last year."

All of the Nats except Milton Pradet, batting practice pitcher, who received a split hand yesterday when he could not get out of the way of a line drive, made the trip to Boston last night.

Outfielder Sammy West, who made such a successful debut as a starter in Tuesday's game, slightly turned an ankle while rounding first on his double in the tenth inning in this contest and was given yesterday off to rest it. He expects to be back in action at Boston today. As far as his throwing arm, which had been bothering him since long before last season ended, is concerned, he gave it tests in both pegging and bat swinging Tuesday and passed them all with no ill effects.

West's absence caused Manager Johnson to shift Harry Rice back to center; and in view of the fact that a southpaw pitcher was opposing the Nats, to put the right-handed hitting Dave Harris in right.

Ruffing Joins Yanks' Hospital Squad.

The Yankees, who have had nothing but hard luck since the season started, suffered another blow yesterday when Pitcher Charley Ruffing, one of their few mound aces, came down with a case of influenza. He remained here at his hotel when his mates went back home last night.

Bluege made a nice play on Chapman's bad hopper in the first, but he certainly did look bad in the next round. His two-base wild heave past first started the trouble for Brown, while he also pegged badly to end the round, Judge being pulled way off the bag and just managing to touch Chapman as he was about to touch the first sack.

Lazzeri made one of those "who put that there" stops opening the Nats' second. He was looking in the air, hoping the bad bounder would not hit him on the chin when the ball hit in his glove and stuck. It robbed Cronin of a hit.

Washington fans are still talking about the play Sunday in which Gehrig was called out for technically passing Lary on the base lines following his drive into the center field stands. Lary, it will be remembered, rounded third and then for some unknown reason went directly to the Yankee dugout. There were two out at the time and this ended the inning.

Van Graflan Gives Low Down.

Several have asked what would have happened had there been but one out at the time, wondering whether or not Lary also would have been ruled out for having left the base path. The question was submitted to Umpire Van Graflan yesterday and he declared in the negative re-

CUBS' ROOKIE STOPS REDS BY 3 TO 1

Chicago Club Bunches Seven Hits Off Lucas in 5th.

CINCINNATI, April 29.—Ed Baecht, Pacific Coast rookie, pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 3-to-1 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds. Baecht allowed eleven hits, as compared to the seven hits his mates secured off Lucas, but kept them scattered. The Cubs bunched four of their seven hits in the fifth inning to score all of their runs.

By virtue of their victory the Cubs remained in a deadlock with the Cardinals for the league leadership.

BLIMP OUTRUNS THE HEATHEN IN PIMLICO SPRINT

Heavy Choice Beaten Out By Neck

Sunvir Scores as Rideaway, 1-2, Runs Far Back.

Form Players Win in First 3 Races of Program.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, April 29. The Lord Baltimore, 6-furlong sprint feature, saw the crowd of 15,000 suffering a setback when the Colgate Stable's Blimp, paying $33.50, headed C. H. Pierce's The Heaten, odds-on favorite, after they had traveled the distance in 1:12 2-5.

Colltiletti took The Heathen to the top right at the break and then took hold of the aged son of Donnaconna. He snugged him down the back side and, saving ground around the turns, came to the eighth pole a length in advance of Blimp.

At the sixteenth pole, Blimp was closing in on The Heathen and Colltiletti went to the whip. He rode a powerful race to the wire, but Blimp was best and won drawing away by a neck. Third money went to A. Barlstein's Golden Prince.

Sun Vir Scores In Upset.

The Towson, the day's secondary feature, proved a serious setback to the fans, when Mrs. Katherine E. Hitt's Sun Vir won, with C. V. Whitney's Kentucky Derby prospect Rideaway, the 1 to 2 favorite, in the five horse field.

Sun Vir and the Seagram Stable's Solace fought it out from barrier to wire, with the Belair Stud's Flaming third. Rideaway was messed about by Robertson through the race which accounts for his poor showing.

Jib Boom Gallops Home in First.

Fifteen thousand spectators who turned out here today saw the Greentree stable's Jib Boom, 2-year-old chestnut son of Whisk Broom II-Jibber Jibe, race four and one-half furlongs in 0:55 to win the Gun Powder, the opening event.

Louis Schaefer, who kicked home three winners yesterday, had Jib Boom right atop the pace and in the stretch came on to an easy score over the Audley Farm's Semester, with C. W. Whitney's Trombone, a first time starter, third.

The sun came out at noon and made things pleasant for the spectators. The racing strip was again fast.

Irene's Bob Wins Sprint in 0:48.

The Fair Gain, one of the day's features, proved just a workout for James Schaffney's Irene's Bob, who raced the half mile in 0:48 to pay $5.40.

Frankie Coltiletti rushed the son of the Turk-Bob's Mary to the front soon after the break to come home the handiest sort of winner over eleven other 2-year-olds.

Trailing Irene's Bob to the wire came the Audley Farm's Red Sky, with D. C. Sands' Bright Bird shutting C. V. Whitney's Clotho out of the show money.

Form Players Win Third Straight.

J. Goff's Shasta Pebble, favorite, made it three in a row for form players when he led home Dancing Mack and Pipe Dream in the mile and 70 yards of the third.

Charlie Pegg restrained Shasta Pebble off the early pace, but leaving the back stretch he let Shasta Pebble down to come on to one of the easiest victories of the day.

Mrs. E. Jackson's Royal Charge, the most consistent plater racing in Maryland this spring, won the mile and one-eighth of the sixth, to enable form players to score their fourth victory of the day.

Trailing Royal Charge to the pay-off line came Silver Scepter, with Tazewell third.

Future Book Bets Returned After Sun Meadow's Win

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., April 29.—There is much gloom around the Sagamore Stable and Mrs. Katherine E. Hitt's barns today, for the morning mail brought back checks for sums of $300 and $660, which were wagered on Rip Van Winkle and Sun Meadow, respectively, to win the forthcoming Kentucky Derby.

A prominent Baltimorean, who sent the $660 check to Tom Kearney, of St. Louis, on April 8, was notified that he was down on Sun Meadow at odds of 40 to 1. He also sent a $300 check to the Mound City bookmaker to lay on Rip Van Winkle at 200 to 1.

When both checks came back today, exactly three weeks after they had been sent he rightfully let out a protest. However, it was nothing to the noise heard around the barns when the boys who had pitched in their pennies to wager on their pets received word that they were not down in Kearney's future book.

Horsemen, upon learning of the checks being returned, said that Kearney got cold feet following Equipoise's poor showing at Havre de Grace and due to the fact that Sun Meadow showed enough in his winning race here to be considered one of the choices for the Preakness and Derby.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JIB BOOM, $3.80, $2.80, $2.40; SEMESTER, $5.80, $4.30; TROMBONE, $3.50.

JIB BOOM, a rapid beginner, outbroke his field and drew away first furlong. Schaeffer was busy on him all through home stretch to retain his advantage. SEMESTER shook off TROMBONE and TARQUIN last sixteenth. TROMBONE broke slowly and ran greenly, was taken around leaders at top of home stretch and made several belated efforts to get to the leader. POLO BAR came through a narrow opening next the inside rail in home stretch and was closing with a rush at the end. TARQUIN, a forward contender until last sixteenth, when he quit. The field was fractious at the post and repeatedly broke through the barrier.

SECOND RACE—Four furlongs. Purse, $1,300. The Fair Gain. For maiden 2-year-old colts and geldings. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:10. Off at 3:11. Two-dollar mutuels paid—IRENE'S BOB, $5.40, $4.00, $2.60; RED SKY (entry), $9.20, $4.80; BRIGHT BIRD, $3.00.

IRENE'S BOB moved up with a rush and caught and passed BRIGHT BIRD before they had gone a furlong, then drew away into a commanding lead and appeared to be only galloping remainder of journey. Colltiletti kept looking back in stretch run. RED SKY moved up in resolute fashion rounding the far turn and disposed of BRIGHT BIRD making turn into home stretch. BRIGHT BIRD left the post with a rush and had a two-length advantage before they had gone twenty yards. The winner carried him off his feet in early stages and he was tiring at end. CLOTHO, a big strider, should go to better advantage when they are asked to go farther.

THIRD RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:40. Off at 3:42½. Winner, J. SHASTA PEBBLE trailed the leaders until going to half-mile pole, where he moved up on the outside, shook off DANCING MACK at top of home stretch and drew away into an easy lead. DANCING MACK, hustled along entire journey, hung when winner challenged. PIPEDREAM and SUBLEVADO raced each other into submission in early stages. BILLYCOCK never appeared able to improve his position. SUBLEVADO pulled up very lame.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300. The Towson. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:13. Off at 4:16½. Winner, K. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUNVIR, $15.70, $7.70, $5.50; SOLACE, $11.60, $8.20; FLAMING, $8.20.

SUNVIR moved up stoutly rounding turn into back stretch. Watters took him in hand and trailed the pacemaker until swinging into home stretch, where he moved up with a rush and, easily disposing of SOLACE, drew away at his leisure last furlong. SOLACE, quick to begin, showed a lot of early speed, but tired when challenged. He was driving to the limit to stand off FLAMING'S challenge. Latter finished with good courage after making wide turn into home stretch. RIDEAWAY, very fractious at the post, raced slowly and was never able to improve his position. He ran as if he did not fancy the footing at Pimlico.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $2,000. The Lord Baltimore Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:49. Off at 4:55. Winner, C. BLIMP followed the pace closely and responded full of courage when called on in home stretch, wore down the tiring THE HEATHEN and outgamed latter at end. THE HEATHEN hustled to the front and was racing at top speed all the way. Colltiletti began driving him at the furlong pole. He was going much the strongest at the end and was gaining on leaders at every stride. LADY CAPULET could never keep up.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:24. Off at 5:27½. Winner, Mrs. E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROYAL CHARGE, $7.90, $4.00, $3.30; SILVER SCEPTER, $6.10, $4.30; TAZEWELL, $5.30.

ROYAL CHARGE, shuffled back going to first turn, moved up stoutly on the outside rounding the far turn, came through next the inside rail entering the home stretch and, squeezing through a narrow opening last hundred yards, was up in the stride. Latter part of journey SILVER SCEPTER, after close pursuit of early pace, went to the front rounding the far turn, stalled off determined challenge from FAIR BILL and hung on well until last sixteenth, where he faltered. TAZEWELL closed going strong on the outside. LEW BLACK was eased up when he quit.

SEVENTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. The Bowling Brook. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 6:00. Off at 6:00. Winner, A. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GAY BIRD, $5.20, $3.40, $2.80; INFERNO LAD, $4.70, $3.60; MARGARET MC, $3.50.

GAY BIRD, outrun for the first half mile, was placed to punishment, came to the outside of the leaders and finishing stoutly, wore INFERNO LAD down to win with speed in reserve. INFERNO LAD raced RED RONALD and PRIMLIN into submission, saved ground, but could not withstand the winner's rush. MARGARET MC, slow to settle in her stride, closed with a belated rush the last quarter mile. RED RONALD had good speed for five furlongs. PRIMLIN was used up early and tired. FAIR SPEED went wide most of the trip.

EPUIPOISE IN GRATIFYING WORKOUT

Whitney Ace Breezes a Mile in 1:45 3-5; Ladder Liked.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., April 29.—Trainer Freddie Hopkins trotted C. V. Whitney's Equipoise on the track this morning and the 3-year-old chestnut son of Pennant and Swinging showed that he has fully recovered from his recent sickness by breezing a mile in 1:45 3-5.

Harry Shillick, of Washington, who was in the irons, broke the colt at the 7-furlong pole and worked him back to that point. He broke sluggishly, but started leveling going down the back lane to finish in hand.

Handlers of the split-second watch, who saw Equipoise work, say he will soon be back at tops. However, the majority of the clockers are of the opinion that Walter J. Salmon's Ladder, who won a 6-furlong race yesterday in 1:11 3-5, will be the ultimate winner of the $50,000 Preakness, the closing day of this meeting.

Ladder is bred to run all day and his recent sprint victories prove he is able to go out and make the pace or come from behind.

Mrs. Margaret Amory, who races under the nom de course of the Sagamore Stable, will ship 20 horses to Belmont Park, N. Y., at the conclusion of this meeting.

Riggen McKinney's Inception, who is being converted into a steeplechaser, is showing nice form over the fences in the morning.

There are 20 horses on the schooling list with the adding of Love Offering.

Bill Irvine will ship the J. W. Y. Martin band, including the speedy Con Amore to Canada at the conclusion of this meeting.

Clarence Buxton was an arrival from New York with Grey Coat, candidate for the $15,000 Dixie on Saturday.

CAPITAL CITY RACE OPENS SUNDAY

St. Joe Plays Congress Heights

1930 District Champions Plan Elaborate Ceremonies.

Greatest League Race Expected With Clubs Strengthened.

ONE of the most colorful collections of sandlot players to ever perform before local fandom will be seen in action Sunday when the barrier goes up for the 1931 flag race of the unlimited section of the Capital City League.

The race, the seventh annual season sponsored by The Post, promises to be one of the most keenly contested in years. Several new entries, possessing impressive records, and a general strengthening of teams by their respective managers augers well for a stiff fight, chock full of excitement.

One of the feature games Sunday will bring together last year's District champions, the Congress Heights A. A., and the powerful St. Joseph's A. C., which finished in third place after leading for the better part of the season. The game will be preceded by a parade of the players of both teams with a flag raising ceremony, following which Mr. George Stevens, president of the Congress Heights Athletic Association will officially open his team's campaign by tossing out the first ball. Norman Murphy is handling the details of the affair.

Few Changes in Title Club.

Ted Otte will trot out practically the same team that carried off the honors last season, although there are many new faces on the heights roster. Connick, Gilbert, Sweeney, Clarke, Sugrue, Wahler, Brown and Goodwin, all important cogs in last year's champion ship nine, are again in the fold. Wesley, second baseman, and Corbin, third sacker, are the only two missing from last season. Ted is confident that his 1931 line-up will be in the thick of the scramble.

On the other hand Frank Cinotti's St. Joseph's club is equally capable and confident of stirring up no little dust in league competition. Possessing tried material for every position, the Saints must be reckoned with when it comes to deciding a winner. Eddie Cinotti, flashy little shortstop, is back from the Chambersburg club where he made a favorable impression, and will hold down his old berth with the team. "Huck" Hillary, Orrel Mitchell and "Mule" Haas, are all back with the nine and "rarin' to go."

Game to Start At 2:45.

Sunday's festivities will commence promptly at 2:45 p. m. on the Congress Heights field, and a large crowd of baseball enthusiasts is expected to be present.

Due to the record breaking number of entries the league schedule has not been completed. The pairings for Sunday's openings will be announced in The Post Saturday morning, and in addition the manager of each team will be notified of his game in order to avoid any confusion.

V. M. I. BEATS N. C. STATE, 9 TO 4

Williams Holds Foes Safe Despite Poor Support.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., April 29.—The Virginia Military Institute nine trounced the North Carolina State Wolf Pack here today by the score of 9 to 4, taking revenge for a defeat last Saturday at Raleigh.

A high wind during the game accounted for many errors. The Cadets touched the State pitcher, Morris, for eleven hits before he was replaced by Lanning. Lefty Williams pitched steady consistent ball with four strikeouts. Lack of support accounted for the four runs of the visitors.

Furtado, pinch-hitter in the ninth, was the only visitor getting more than a single.

Noble Pounds Home Run.

A. Noble landed a ball atop the left field cliff for a homer in the fourth.

Laughorn played a brilliant game at short, handling his difficult assists with precision. Edmunds, heavy hitter for the Cadets, poled out a double and a pair of singles out of four tries. Duke picked out two singles, leading the Wolf Pack.

The Cadets took the lead in the first inning, when five tallies were pushed across with doubles of Edmunds and Cutchin. They held this lead the entire game. The Wolf Pack attempted a rally in the ninth, when Furtado doubled with a runner on, but fly balls ended the game. This was a Tri-State League game.

Old Line Netmen Bow To Hampden-Sidney

Hampden-Sidney's tennis team continued its fast pace against colleges of the District group when it vanquished University of Marland's racqueters, 7 to 2, yesterday, on the Columbia Country Club courts.

Busick was the Old Liner to win in the singles. He defeated Sloan, 6—3, 6—3.

Goubeau and Roberts accounted for Maryland's doubles victory, downing Talbot and Sloan, 7—5, 3—6, 7—5.

NAVY DOWNS TEMPLE, 16 TO 4

Ten Erorrs Aid Middies in Piling Up Big Score.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 29.—Temple University of Philadelphia proved easy picking for the Annapolis Midshipmen on the diamond here today, the Tars rolling up their largest score of the season, 16 to 4.

The visitors put up a miserable exhibition afield, ten miscues in addition to a passed ball by Carl, being credited against them. The Middies, on the other hand, were in fine form, a wild pitch by Davenport being the only boot of an otherwise perfect record. This, however, did not figure in the run getting by the visitors. Davenport, who came up to the varsity from last year's plebe team, went the full route and was as effective as in his only other start earlier in the season. The eight safe hits registered by Temple were scattered over six innings when they bunched three that accounted for as many runs.

Middies Score Three In First.

The Middies got off to a good start in the opening frame scoring a trio of markers as the result of three errors by the visiting infield and a home run drive to deep right center by Hurley. Two more errors, followed by a brace of hits brought another run in the second stanza. Temple woke up temporarily in the third to score three runs.

They came from a pass to Ford, Rambone's single, Whittick's triple and Clouser's bingle. "Jack" Bonner gave Temple its only other counter in the fourth when he plated the pellet to deep right center for the circuit. This knotted the count at 4-all, but the Tars came back strong to score 4 more in the same session, and the issue was not in doubt after that.

ALEXANDRIA HIGH BEATS WESTERN

Virginians Pound Out 17 Hits to Take Game, 14-5.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 29.—Alexandria High School downed Western High, of Washington, by 14 to 5 here this afternon on Edward Duncan Field.

Western used two pitchers, Pore and Grimm, in its futile effort to stop the thunder of Alexandria bats, and 17 hits were obtained off their offerings during the afternoon's events.

Yowell and Keith, both of Western, supplied the main offensive hits, however. The two Washington youths came through with home run blows off Jack Hudson in rapid succession in Western's fourth.

STORE TEAM TO OPPOSE FIREMEN

Nation-Wide Nine to Play Alexandrians on Sunday.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 29.—The Nation-Wide Store Team, of Washington, will trek to this city on Sunday for a game with the Columbia Fire Department Nine, champions of the Virginia city in 1930, for a contest on Haydon's Field at 3 o'clock, it was announced today by Manager Julian Davis, of the firefighters.

Capt. Lecky Nowland wants to win this contest and has called a special practice for all players on Haydon's Field Friday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Several shifts in the line-up will be made.

Les McMemamin and Gillie Lee are playing great ball for the Firemen this year. The former worked as a reserve pitcher Sunday and showed plenty stuff. Lee is guarding the hot corner and hitting fourth in the line-up. He formerly starred for the old Dreadnaughts. Bobby Darley, one of the city's leading catchers, is at his old post and showing up excellent.

A handsome scoreboard, the gift of the Alexandria Gazette, will be erected in Baggett's Stadium this week, it was stated today by Director Corbett, of the Celtics.

Alexandria High School baseball tossers will trek to Maryland on Friday for a game with the Charlotte Hall team. This is a return contest. The Alexandria boys won the last game played with the Maryland school team.

"Squire" Given, athletic director of the Alexandria school, has signed to play baseball with the Alpha Delta Omega Club. Given plays third base. On Saturday, the Washington Red Sox will invade Alexandria for a game with the "Fraters."

Staunton Cadets Bow To Woodberry Golfers

Special to The Washington Post.

Woodberry Forest, Va., April 29.—Woodberry Forest golf team defeated the Staunton Military team here today, 18 to 0. There were four players to a side. In scoring both individual and foursome matches counted. Woodberry's players were Capt. Ford, Monsted, Young and Mott. Capt. Perley, Brown, Fogler and McCutcheon were the Staunton four. Monsted's 79 was the best round of the afternoon. A return match will be played at Staunton next Saturday.

This makes Woodberry's third victory in four starts. A match with the Western High School, of Washington, played last Saturday at Washington, over the course of the Columbia Country Club course, resulted in a tie.

M'ALEER, FORMER NAT PILOT, DEAD

McAleer was the fourth important figure in big league baseball to die within a little more than a month. All were Ohioans. The others were Johnson, Ernest S. Barnard (president of the American League), and August ("Garry") Herrmann (former chairman of the extinct National Baseball Commission and former owner of the Cincinnati Reds).

McAleer Rated Among Best All-Time Outfielders

Cleveland, April 29 (A.P.).—"Jimmy" McAleer, who died at Youngstown today, was not only famous as a baseball manager and as one of the organizers of the American League. In the opinion of Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, McAleer was one of the greatest outfielders of all times.

It was McAleer, back in the 90's, who was the first outfielder to chase a long fly ball without keeping an eye on it while he was running.

McAleer, once he saw a ball sailing up to go over his head, would estimate with uncanny accuracy where it was going and he would race with all his speed to that spot, not looking backward over his shoulder. Almost invariably this great player was waiting for the ball ahead of time when it came within distance to catch.

"There are a lot of big league outfielders who still haven't learned that trick," Evans said today, when told of McAleer's death. "Charley Jamieson, of the Indians, is probably the best exponent today of McAleer's style," Evans said.

NATS AT BOSTON TODAY FOR SERIES

garding Lary violating any rule in leaving the base line as long as it was not during a run-down. "There being no ball in the game, we would have had to await developments," he said. "Before the new ball was given the Washington pitcher, Lary still could have run on the base line where he left it and have scored. If he didn't it was up to one of the members of the Washington team to have called for the ball and either have touched Lary or the home plate—the home plate, even though it wasn't a force play, because the home players were not supposed to chase Lary all over the park in order to put the ball on him."

Lou Gehrig participated in his 900th consecutive game yesterday.

STEEL SLUMP LEADS STOCKS' LIQUIDATION

Other Issues Show Losses in Total Sales for Day of 3,200,000 Shares.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—A 9-point plunge by United States Steel common sent waves of liquidation through the stock market today.

Other issues suffered much less severely than the old industrial favorite, so that the average decline was held to 2.4 points, less than many other breaks the market has had this year, but it was enough to drop the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite price fractionally under the low of last December to a new minimum since the summer of 1927. Sales totaled 3,200,000 shares.

Wall street certainly found no cheer in the Steel Corporation's quarterly statement, and apparently was unwilling to believe that the declaration of the regular dividend meant the maintenance of the payment in the event earnings continue unfavorable. U. S. Steel's dip into surplus to meet the dividend voted yesterday is only about three-quarters of a million dollars less than the deficit for the entire year 1921, when the then $5 rate was retained.

Market Opens Weakly.

The market opened weakly, with Steel off 2⅞ on a 6,000-share sale. Offerings of the stock increased steadily, although the price steadied occasionally, especially in the last hour, when the only worth-while rally of the day occurred. However, there was another break at the close which sent the quotation to 115. It finished at 115¼, off 9⅛. Bethlehem was hammered vigorously in anticipation of a dividend reduction at tomorrow's meeting and closed 6⅝ off. The loss in Westinghouse was only a point less.

Numerous utilities looked weak. American Telephone, North American, Consolidated Gas, American Water Works and Public Service of New Jersey yielded 2 to more than 3 net. General Motors stood up well during the morning, but gave way later. General Electric, of the prominent industrials, was virtually alone in the steadiness, sagging only a fraction.

Scattered recoveries in the two groups that had been weakest—rails and oils—offered some relief from the gloom in which the market floundered. New York Central lost 3 points and Pennsylvania was heavy, but there were net gains by Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, New Haven and Union Pacific. The group, as a whole, was dull.

News Fails to Cheer.

Had the market been in a happier frame of mind, it might have taken at least some cheer from the day's news. The steel reviews indicated that the decline in operations which started late in March was smoothing out, for Iron Age said the week's dip had been less than a point, while Steel noted a very slight gain. The former reported "the sagging tendency of demand is less pronounced, although not yet halted." Electric power production improved in comparison with the previous week, although it was below a year ago. The gain in freight car loadings was more than seasonal, and a fairly complete statement of last month's railroad earnings revealed that March incomes were much better than February's.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank's monthly statistics on retail and wholesale trade in this district reflected the influence of an early Easter. Chain store sales, although 3.8 per cent less than for March, 1930, were little changed from February, but the drop in department store business was the smallest, compared with a year ago, since last May, and the dollar volume of wholesale trade rose substantially over February.

Wheat closed irregular, half a cent lower to ¾ higher. The Government weather report was bearish. Corn futures were also mixed, showing virtually the same range of fluctuations. Cotton was affected by the stock market and lost 10 to 14 points. Strength of coffee featured the other commodities.

Moderate reactions developed in foreign exchanges, with both sterling and the French franc easy.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 29 (A.P.).—Notwithstanding the handicap of a weak stock market, wheat prices scored good gains today, bully selling ascribed to Omaha sources brought about a late reaction. Persistent dry weather over the spring wheat area of this country and Canada, with increasing likelihood of material curtailment of 1931 wheat production in Canada, stimulated demand for wheat. There were also forecasts of a slashing reduction of 58 cents a bushel in Germany's wheat import duty within a week.

Wheat closed irregular, ½ cent lower to ⅞@1⅛ higher, corn ⅜ off to ½ up, oats at ⅛ decline to ⅜ advance, and provisions showing 8 cents setback.

Most quickly affecting wheat were early announcements that the German tariff on wheat was almost certain to be cut, and that the German government believed Germany could absorb 20,000,000 bushels of foreign wheat without endangering the nation's agriculture. On top of this was a report that 30,000,000 bushels of wheat had been sold to go out of Montreal in the next four weeks. It was also asserted that European spring seeding was backward in most countries, and that winter wheat growth in big producing regions, Italy, France and Germany, had been dwarfed, with France abandoning a large area.

An unusual feature of wheat dealings was that July contracts showed relatively greater strength than September. July went at one time to a cent a bushel premium. There was considerable buying of July against sales of September, a process which disclosed a paucity of offerings of July. Reports from domestic winter wheat sections, however, were extremely optimistic, and tended to allay concern over conditions in the spring wheat belt. New export business in North American wheat was estimated at more than 800,000 bushels, including some durum wheat from the United States.

Corn and oats were helped by wheat rallies, but corn advances were checked owing to reports that Argentine corn was due to arrive at a Georgian Bay port in Canada next week. This circumstance was expected to shut off demand for corn from Chicago so far as Canada was concerned.

Provisions went lower with hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July, 60¼@62⅛; September, 59⅜@59½; 61⅛; December, 63@63⅛; 65@65⅛. Corn, May, 53⅛, 55⅝; July, 56⅛, 57⅝@58; September, 58⅛@56¼, 58; December, 50¾, 52.

BOND PRICES LOSE IN GENERAL DECLINE

Sharpest Drops Occur in Foreign Issues; Rails Are Quiet.

New York, April 29 (A.P.).—A general decline was the outstanding feature of the bond market today, but a late rally reduced the losses and in some cases went so far as to provide net gains.

Further new low levels for this year were recorded in the consolidated average price of utilities, rails and industrials and low averages were reached by the two latter groups.

The sharpest losses occurred among foreign obligations, a large number of which staged rapid recoveries. As a group Chilean bonds provided the sharpest fluctuations and a number of them sold at new low levels. The 6 per cent bonds of the Chilean Republic of 1960, of May, 1963, and of January, February and September, 1961, dropped to new low prices, but they closed with varying net gains. Losses in several other Chilean bonds were not regained, however. Bankers conversant with Chilean affairs could give no tangible reasons for these fluctuations.

Loans of the Argentine national government worked higher in most instances on a moderate volume. Brazilian 6½s of 1926-57 and the 7s and 8s slumped and recovered to make good net gains, but the 6½s and 8s of Rio de Janeiro closed sharply lower on a few sales. Some industrial and provincial bonds of Germany also broke. State of Queensland 6s and City of Brisbane 5s of 1958, respectively, lost 14¾ and 5¾ points. Other Australian losses were more moderate.

Trading in railroad bonds was quiet until midday, when selling pressure appeared. Some of the lowest prices of the day were reached on the late sales. Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1933, first 4s of 1948, St. Paul 5s of 1975, and adjustment 5s, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s of 1955, Erie refunding and improvement 5s of 1967 and of 1975, Missouri Pacific series I 5s and Nickel Plate series C 4½s were active and closed lower.

Public, utility and industrial bonds sold at lower prices, too, but there was little evidence of selling pressure and the declines were principally fractional.

United States Government obligations were moderately active and moved within narrow limits.

CITY BANKERS PLAN GREATEST SESSION

Convention Will Be Held at Hot Springs, Beginning on June 18.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Plans for what probably will be the largest and best convention in the history of the District of Columbia Bankers Association were revealed last night by Secretary Frederick P. H. Siddons, American Security & Trust Co., general convention committee chairman, at the annual spring "pre-convention" dinner of the association at Columbia Country Club.

Mr. Siddons announced Comptroller of the Currency John W. Pole as another convention speaker, Rome C. Stephenson, president of the American Bankers Association, being a previously announced one.

More than 200 bankers and banking officials heard Mr. Siddons' resume of the convention program, most of which is complete. After listing the various sporting events to be held, he outlined the entertainment program. He said that all committees have functioned in such a way as to have completed most details of their work.

Record Attendance Expected.

"The coming convention at Hot Springs, Va., June 18 to 21 should bring us a record attendance," said Mr. Siddons, "as our thirteenth annual gathering will offer a program of constructive thought which should be of unusual benefit to all local bankers. In times as the present, we find that such gatherings are having excellent attendance."

At 9:30 p. m., Wednesday, June 17, C. & O. railway trains will bear delegates and guests to Hot Springs, arriving there in time for breakfast.

Each of the three mornings will be devoted to business of the convention, with the afternoons for play. Special arrangements have been made for the afternoons and evenings. After a restful Sunday, June 21, the bankers will return, arriving in Washington Monday morning, June 22, in time for their usual daily routines.

Gillilan Is Speaker.

Strickland Gillilan, humorist, lecturer and writer, was the principal speaker at the meeting and there was singing by Bill Raymond and Fred East. Among the guests were Clyde B. Asher, president of Columbia Country Club; Arthur B. Shelton, club secretary; Vice President E. E. Mountjoy, American Bankers Association.

Deputy Comptroller of the Currency F. G. Awalt, Chief National Bank Examiner I. I. Chorpening, Fifth Federal Reserve district; Chief National Bank Examiner W. P. Folger, William H. Donovan, of the legal counsel of the association; George Plitt, former president of the Washington Board of Trade; Ward H. Marsh, manager of the Greater Washington committee; L. W. Craig, first vice president, Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles.

Awards in the golf tournament preceding the dinner were distributed by Trust Officer T. Stanley Holland, American Security & Trust Co., who with Vice President C. H. Pope, Munsey Trust Co., and Vice President Laurence A. Slaughter, Commercial National Bank, composed the dinner committee. President Lanier P. McLachlen, McLachlen Banking Corporation, president of the association, presided.

Pole Is Englishman.

Mr. Pole, the second convention speaker to be announced, was born in England, where he followed the profession of civil engineer. At the age of 23 he came to this country and in the course of a short time entered the banking business. After several years of commercial banking experience he was appointed in 1915 as a national bank examiner and was assigned to the Richmond district. He was next stationed at Cleveland, Ohio, for several years, where he made his permanent home and where he has since maintained his legal residence. Here he examined the principal banks in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Toledo and other Ohio and Pennsylvania cities.

In 1919 he was appointed chief national bank examiner for the Sixth Federal Reserve District, with headquarters at Atlanta, where he served for more than four years, during which time he had the responsibility for the direction of the examination of all the national banks in that district. In July, 1925, he was appointed chief national bank examiner for the entire United States, with offices in the Bureau of the Comptroller of the Currency, at Washington. During the five years in which he held this office he directed the examination of about 8,000 national banks in every State in the Union, gaining thereby a direct and intimate contact with banking policies and bank management from a national point of view. In November, 1928, he was appointed Comptroller of the Currency by President Coolidge.

ALEXANDRIA PUPILS TO GIVE MAY FETES

Public Schools Plan Program of Exercises to Teach Child Health.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Alexandria public schools have arranged a program of May Day exercises, pursuant to the proclamation of Gov. John Garland Pollard calling upon all educators, health officials, nurses, teachers, State and local agencies, and citizens generally, to join together to make a Child Health Day this year, "not only a fit celebration of achievement for the children, but also a day for so coordinating the interest in child health in every locality as to secure a sense of community responsibility toward those who are freshest from the hands of God."

The supervisor of physical education in the public schools, Mrs. Katherine Watkins, with principals and teachers of various schools, has arranged the exercises as follows:

Maury School, May 1, 9:30 a. m.; Lee School, 10:30 a. m.; Jefferson School, 1 p. m.; Washington School, 9:30 a. m.; May 8, Mount Vernon School, 1:30 p. m., and Parker-Gray School, May 15, 1:30 p. m. Parents and civic and fraternal organizations have been invited.

Pupils of Jefferson School will present a program of marching, drills nad wand and dumbbell exercises, pyramids and American dances under direction of Mrs. Watkins, the exercises to take place near the swimming pool. The dance program begins with the dances of Indians. The program follows:

Indian rance, Miss Tecla Dreifus; May pole, Miss Margaret Abramson; minuet and Virginia reel, Miss Abramson; "Pop-Goes-the-Weasel," Mrs. E. C. Goode; Sicilian circle and jumping jack, Miss Tecla Dreifus; schottische, polka and waltz quadrille, Miss Abramson; tap, shag and toe dancing, Miss Dreifus.

Boys' dumbbell drill, directed by Mrs. E. C. Goode; wand drill, Mrs. Leah Lolph; pyramids, Mrs. E. C. Goode; gymnastics, Mrs. Dolph.

Miss Carolyn Ford, a pupil in the seventh grade at Jefferson School, has een chosen May Queen, and the girls from Miss Nicoll's and Miss Whittaker's rooms will act as a guard of honor.

Alexandria's side of the water rate controversy will be heard before the State Corporation Commission in Richmond today, beginning at 10 o'clock. The case is one in which the Alexandria Water Co., which is now owned by the New York interests, seeks to otain authority for a large increase in water rates, and the city is resisting the movement.

The case was started in March and was postponed until April 30, after more than a week spent in taking testimony. It is expected the case whill e taken under advisement and the decision handed down in June.

Attorney Carl Budwesky and Commonwealth's Attorney Alert V. Bryan are representing the City of Alexandria, while Attorney Gardner L. Boothe represents the water company.

Mrs. Frank M. Dillard, president of the Alexandria Garden Club, has announced that a special bus will leave the George Mason Hotel, Alexandria, at 2:30 o'clock Saturday, May 2, for a tour of gardens south of Alexandria that will be opened that day for the club and for the benefit of the restoration of the courtyard of Gadsby's Tavern. The Alexandria Garden Club has undertaken this part of the work at the old tavern, and as a means of raising funds for this endeavor has secured the consent of owners of several beautiful gardens to have them opened that afternoon. Mrs. Dillard and Miss Anne Lewis Jones are in charge of the trip.

Places open that day will be historic Gunston Hall, the home of George Mason, author of "The Virginia Bill of Rights," noted for its wonderful boxwood. It is now owned by Lewis Hertle and used as his private residence.

Wellington, now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Matheson, owned by Tobias Lear, military secretary to Gen. Washington, who came to Mount Vernon in 1786 to be a tutor to the Custis children. History states that he lived the last few years of his life at Wellington, a part of the Mount Vernon estate in which he he had inherited a life interest from the general.

Rippon Lodge, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hampton Ellis, was built by Col. Blackburn, who married a Washington girl, and is considered one of the most beautiful places in this section of the country.

Ordley, the home of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Ord, overlooks the Potomac River, and the garden is the particular pride of the owners and especially beautiful at this season.

The Alexandria Parking and Planning Commission is understood to have practically completed its report on zoning and will shortl submit it to the city council. It is considered probable that the council will appoint a date on which property owners will be given a hearing on the proposed zoning ordinance.

Members of the commission are George E. Garrett, chairman; John U. eHardon, secretary; Nicholas J. Lawler, Robert L. Kane and Ben B. Ennine.

Changes have been made in locations of several traffic signs in the city. The sign at West and Oronoco streets has been changed to a stop on West street on the south side of Oronoco street, it being formerly on the east side. Two new signs have been placed at Oronoco and Patrick streets, stopping east and westbound traffic. The sign at Duke and Patrick streets, formerly o nthe north and south sides, have been changed to the east and west sides of the intersection.

Schmidhauser, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church. Burial will be in the Methodist Protestant Cemetery.

BIG SUITS FOLLOW AVENUE WIDENING

Dr. Anna Dunne Declares $214,000 Is Due Her for Property.

The Montgomery County Commissioners were named defendants in two suits filed yesterday in Circuit Court at Rockville by attorneys for Dr. Anna Bartsch Dunne, 2900 Connecticut avenue northwest, alleging breach of contract, and infringement of constitutional rights in the widening of Georgia avenue nearly three years ago. Property belonging to the doctor at Georgia avenue and Colesville pike was used in the widening, the bill claims, without paying her for the land.

The two suits demand an aggregate of $214,307 damages. In one the plaintiff charges the lands were taken without due process of law and that the commissioners took possession of 17,592.18 square feet of her property at what is now one of the busiest corners in Silver Spring without making any payment for the property.

The breach of contract occurred when the commissioners failed to live up to their promise to pay a reasonable price for the property, the suit says. The commissioners took possession June 7, 1928, the declaration states.

The doctor also charges trespass on her property in the taking of the land and names the county commissioners in office at that time as well as the present commissioners, who are named in the breach of contract as a corporate body.

The second suit alleges that the commissioners so injured and damaged the plaintiff through the loss of her freehold and inheritance in the land, as well as rents and profits, that the nervous shock and mental anguish suffered entitle her to $107,153.08.

Attorneys for the plaintiff allege that the questions involved are constitutional and that failing to obtain satisfactory settlement in Maryland tribunals they will carry the cases to the United States Supreme Court. Dr. Dunne has engaged an imposing array of attorneys, who include Peter, Simpson & Oxley; Butler, Lamb, Foster & Pope; Karl D. Loos, E. Barrett Prettyman and P. C. King, jr.

Dr. Dunne received much publicity in July, 1929, when she lived in a tent on the property in question to maintain her right of ownership against the Maryland Garage & Machine Co., of Silver Spring.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 29.—In an effort to decrease the liquor supply at Winchester, Va., during the Shenandoah apple blossom festival, May 5 and 6, Federal, State and county authorities in the Eastern Panhandle of West Virginia have almost literally lived on roads from Maryland for the last ten days, with the result that approximately 2,000 pints of liquor and nearly two dozen automobiles have been seized, and probably a score and a half arrests made.

Bridges at Harpers Ferry, Shepherdstown and Brosius, which separate Maryland from this State, have been under the eye of the authorities almost constantly.

TWIN BROTHERS WIN BABY SHOW HONORS

Contest Is Feature of May Day Program Held at Takoma Park.

Dozens of mothers and their offspring gathered on the green lawns of the Washington Sanitarium at Takoma Park yesterday for the May Day program and baby show, held as part of the Child Health Day observance in Washington. The baby show drew 125 entrants, mostly from Takoma Park and Silver Spring.

While Child Health Day will be observed more generally on May 1, sponsors of yesterday's show found it impossible to stage the affair Friday, and advanced the date.

The baby show was divided into three classes, one for children under 6 months old, another for children a year old or younger, and a third for children under 2 years of age.

Twins won the prize in the year-old class, with honors awarded jointly to Kenneth and Frederick McIntosh, sons of Mr. and Mrs. K. R. McIntosh, of 903 Flower avenue, Takoma Park. Myrna Evelyn Truman and Mary Ellen Andrus won honorable mention in this class.

Hope Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Anderson, of 702 Easley street, Silver Spring, Md., was winner in the 6-month-old class, with Russell Stockil and David E. Kreh receiving honorable mention.

Donald Stellfox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stellfox, of 706 Erie street, Takoma Prak, Md., was winner in the 2-year-old class. Irma Lee Keith was awarded honorable mention.

Talks on infant hygiene were given the mothers by Dr. Estella Ford Warner, special consultant of the United States Health Service; Dr. A. W. Truman, medical superintendent of the sanitarium, and Dr. C. W. Mitchell, of Silver Spring.

Judges of the baby show were Dr. Edna Patterson, Miss Reba Williams, Mrs. E. T. James and Miss Florence Oliver.

The drvier of the accompanying car, who gave his name as Leonard W. Shoemaker, of Park road near Georgia avenue northwest, was arrested and charged with reckless driving and failing to keep to the right.

The pursuing policement, Sergt. Guy L. Jones and Corpl. D. L. Snyder, sighted the liquor-laden car near Burtonsville and lost it along the Columbia pike. Earlier they had capeured a truck carrying 36 gallons of contraband, although the driver escaped on foot when he saw he was being overtaken.

WARRENTON AWAITS CUP RACE SATURDAY

Twelve Horses Entered in Event for Leg on Trophy; Soissons Will Run.

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., April 28.—The official program for the Virginia Gold Cup race to be run Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock was issued today.

Twelve entries are shown, as follows: Soissons, Flying Horse Farm; Bulgold, Mrs. H. R. Bishop; Seraglio and Hennegouwen, owned by Mrs. John Hay Whitney; Drummer Boy and Racketeer, entered by Mrs. T. H. Somerville; Menelaus, of the Rolling Plains Stable; T. H. Symington's Primero; So Dear, Vine Hill Stables; Skyscraper, George Sloane; Sunset, Harry D. Kirkover and Red Indian, owned by Jack Skinner.

Saturday's race will be the tenth annual running of this big sporting event, now regarded, with the Maryland Cup, as one of the two big cross-country races of the East. The race, under rules of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, is for 4-year-olds and upward.

1930 Winner Again Entered.

The Gold Cup, worth $1,000, has to be won three times to be the property of any one. This is the second cup offered in the ten years of the Gold Cup history, Mrs. Hitt having taken permanent possession of the first one in 1925, with her John Bunny. Last year's winner, Soissons, is again in the lists for Saturday, with Jack Skinner, well-known Middleburg rider, up.

In addition to winning last year's Virginia Gold Cup, Soissons only last Saturday annexed the Maryland Cup. Bulgold and Skyscraper are conceded chances, but many believe that if Soissons is fit it will take a good horse to beat him. Among other good riders who will have a leg up Saturday are H. R. Bishop, William B. Streett, Noel Lang, Crawford Burton, Harry Duffey and Tom Waller.

Course Has Many Obstacles.

The stewards are: John E. Cowdin, George H. Bull and A. S. Craven. W. C. Langley, William Mitchel, Fletcher Harper and W. P. Hulbert will act as judges. The patrol judges are George Sloane, R. J. Kirkpatrick, Frederick F. Alexandre, Richard Wallach, Arthur White and E. Tunnicliff Fox. W. H. Pool is paddock judge, and W. W. Gulick and J. W. Slaughter, clerks of scales. Baldwin D. Spilman, jr., is again clerk of course, with William Skinker and James C. Hamilton, starters.

The course, about four miles across country, has eighteen obstacles.

Following the Gold Cup race, run over the Elway Farm Estate, the property of Baldwin Spilman, there will be two other races at Clovelly Farm, across the road. The first of these two races, the Warrenton Hunt, will be run at 4 p. m. over a flagged two and one-half mile course. Twelve horses are entered for this race. The third race of the day will be the Centerbury Cup, over a brush course of two and one-half miles, at 4:30, with 15 entries.

Saturday Warrenton will be given over to the horse lover, with the round of gayeties starting Friday night with dinners and dances, and concluding Saturday night with various entertainments. Last year some 8,000 persons witnessed the running of the Gold Cup race.

U. S. Soon Will Get Huge Park Tract

93,000 Acres in Great Smoky Range Will Comprise National Preserve.

(Associated Press.)

Timberland totaling 93,000 acres in the heart of the Great Smoky Mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee will pass into the keeping of the Government within a few weeks for perpetual preservation in the greatest national park of the East.

Representatives of the park commission of the two States reached an agreement yesterday with the Champion Fiber Co., owners of the forest land, on the price to be paid. The sum was not announced because condemnation proceedings on adjoining tracts are now under way, but is known to run into millions. The deal will be consummated within ten days or two weeks.

The tract involved contains 18 miles of the main Smoky Range and the finest mountain peaks in the area, among them are Le Conte, 6,593 feet high; Mount Guyot, 6,621 feet, and Clingman's Dome, 6,642 feet. Next to Mount Mitchell in North Carolina these are the highest peaks in eastern America.

Blaze in Theater Brings Near Panic

Projectionist in Culpeper Partially Overcome; Is Saved by Patron.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., April 29.—Balcony patrons almost caused a panic tonight when they rushed wildly from the Fairfax Theater here after fire had broken out in the motion picture projection booth. The blaze was extinguished by Frank Brown, the projectionist, who suffered burns on the head and arms and might have been critically injured had not one of the moviegoers intervened.

Brown was alone in the booth when he thrust his head through an parture to test a "talkie" connection. When he turned around, the projector was aflame. Seizing an extinguisher, he put out the blaze then fell to the floor, partially overcome by smoke.

Earlton Curtis, who was in a balcony seat near the booth, paused in his flight to drag Brown out of it. Unlike the crowd upstairs, the orchestra patrons marched out in orderly fashion.

Highway Fund Is Allotted.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 29 (Special).—Approximately $1,000,000 has been allotted the eastern panhandle and the South Branch valley by the State road commission to carry on road projects during the ensuing year. The money, authorized by the recent legislature, is part of the $50,000,000 bond issue voted on favorably a few years ago.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE PRESS AND THE RADIO.

THE newspapers of America are in a battle with radio, some publishers contending that it should be treated as a business competitor, while the radio leaders insist that each has its own distinct field. The view of the publishers is that by broadcasting news the radio stations interfere with newspaper sales. The complaint is unconvincing. At the time the announcer is broadcasting the news of an earthquake, flood or fire the audience is probably listening to Amos 'n' Andy, Floyd Gibbons, some food expert or a quartet.

* * * *

On the other hand, those who happen to tune in and get the tidings of some big news event are almost certain to send out for a late newspaper so they can get all the details without being interrupted by any sales talk on pancake flour, tobacco or ginger cookies.

* * * *

The more you hear a radio broadcaster trying to explain a big news event, the more you need a paper to see what really happened. They gave the public the running of the Grand National steeplechase by radio, for instance, and the listeners were so confused that it took three or four newspapers to straighten them out.

* * * *

Nevertheless, it is possible that the day will come when the radio and the press will work under one tent, each big newspaper working in its own radio station, and with the star reporters chosen for their voices, enunciation and ability to croon between editions

* * * *

THE truly great city editor will have to have radio personality, the topnotch editor in chief will have to sing well and play the bull fiddle or something, and eulogies of the Danas and Wattersons of the future may read:

"He was one of the greatest editors of all time, as attested by the fact that he frequently received as many as 50,000 letters a day asking him to reread his editorial on the tariff, sing 'Cheerful Little Earful' once more and tell the story of the Chinaman and the two Turks."

* * * *

The masthead may carry the slogan, "All the news that the staff can pronounce correctly"

* * * *

But television will bring the real shock. The patrons of the future radio-newspaper are going to be badly jarred the day they can peer into the newspaper office and see that the woman's page editor is a man with long, white whiskers, that the financial expert is a fellow who is always borrowing a nickel from somebody and that the advice to the lovelorn department is run by a villainous looking old egg with a glass eye and cauliflower ear.

* * * *

In the meantime the press shouldn't worry. Its big advantage over the radio is that the customers can get all the news all the time without having to buy a new cabinet every year or two.

IT'S A SWIFT AGE.

"SATURDAY mornings Jack Britton will give boxing lessons to sons of members who are under 18 years of age."—New York Downtown Athletic Club bulletin.

"Legs" Diamond has been shot again. If they keep everlastingly at it they are bound to hurt him one of these days.

Can't you fancy the humiliation of that notorious gunman, fugitive from many desperate crimes, who fell into the arms of a policeman because he parked too near a hydrant?

"Had recently suffered from a mental breakdown."—News item. Vilma Mitchell suggests that his iron will gave way.

"Judge Named Head of Horse Body."—headline. Boy, a bale of hay for hizzoner, and make it snappy!

A New York newspaper has inaugurated a series on solitaire, which may or may not be a reflection on the circulation.

REPORT ON BOOKS OF RAY DUE TODAY

Shortage of $30,000 Is Said to Be Shown in Records of Late Clerk.

Formal report upon the condition of the books of the late Preston B. Ray, clerk of the Circuit Court of Montgomery County, will be made today to State Comptroller William S. Gordy in Baltimore, by the auditors, who have completed their examination. In the meantime, State officials decline to deny or affirm whether or not there is a shortage.

It was learned from an authoritative source yesterday, however, that a shortage of approximately $30,000 will be reported, although no official announcement of this was made. This amount is said to be the total of a series of shortages since Mr. Ray assumed office in 1914, when he was appointed by Judge Edward Peter.

The shortage is said to have been found in the section of Mr. Ray's accounts which should list the fees collected for the sale of property taken in default of taxes. These fees would aggregate about $1,500 to $2,000 a year, it was said. The books in the clerk's office show no disposition of these funds, according to the report, although the collection of the money is shown on the report of the county treasurer.

The clerk of the court is bonded and the State will not lose any money if there is a shortage, officials said. Mr. Ray was bonded by the Fidelity Deposit Co., of Baltimore.

Joseph McCusker, chief deputy to the comptroller, said yesterday that a shortage had been reported, but that any statement regarding the audit would have to come from Mr. Gordy.

Youngest Bandits Spanked at Home

Two Boys, 6 and 9 Year Old, Steal Gun and Threaten Passers-By.

Two boys, one 6 and the other 9 years old, drew old-fashioned whippings from their parents when they were returned to their homes in Cherrydale by Officer Charles Hager of Arlington County, yesterday.

The youngsters had obtained a gun from a parked automobile and started to use it on passing women. The two were soon picked up by the officer and taken to the Arlington County Jail. Deputy Sheriff Harry L. Woodyard, appreciating their youth and finding that no one was harmed, ordered them toaken to their homes. The two were whipped by their parents in the presence of the officer.

The officer stated last night that he was satisfied they were both suffering as a result of the whippings, which he is sure they will long remember.
